FENGTAI INCIDENT SETTLED

CHINA BOWS TO JAPAN DEMANDS APOLOGY AND DAMAGES

Peking, July 3.
The Fengtai incident, which arose over the detention of a Japanese army officer and manhandling of a trader by Chinese troops, has been finally settled at a Sino-Japanese conference.

Besides replacing the Chinese troops at Fengtai, the Chinese authorities have agreed, among other things, to formally apologise for the offences against Japanese subjects, to deprive the battalion commander responsible of his rank, and to pay damages to the Japanese trader allegedly manhandled and detained.—Reuter.

RUBBER PRICES ADVANCE

HEAVY BUYING CONTINUES TIGHTNESS IN "SPOT"

London, July 2.
A bout of substantial rubber buying by America and the Continent during the past fortnight, much of which has been bought direct from the Far East on c.i.f. terms, carried spot rubber in London to the highest point since September, 1934.

The home trade offtake also continues excellent and speculative interest is becoming livelier, with the realisation that world stocks have fallen 87,100 tons to 49,100 tons this year. The drop in United Kingdom stocks of 34,155 tons since March 2 is actually causing some tightness in rubber in London.

Moreover, the restriction regulations are generally regarded as growing steadily more efficient, as evidenced by the Netherlands East Indies decision to replace the cumbersome extraordinary duty on native rubber with an individual control system, which is understood to trouble the natives' profit without increasing their output.—Reuter.

Lord Stanley British Chief At Montreux

London, July 2.
Lord Stanley, it is learned, is proceeding to Switzerland to replace Lord Stanhope as leader of the British delegation at the Montreux conference, concerning Turkey's remilitarisation of the Dardanelles. The conference will probably be resumed on July 6.

It is understood Lord Stanley has returned to assume his duties as First Commissioner of Works.—Reuter.

NO HOPE OF FURTHER SANCTIONS

Small Nations Lose Fight at Geneva

"LEAGUE HAS ABANDONED VICTIM TO HIS FATE"

Geneva, July 2.

Having previously taken the bit between their teeth and vehemently protested against the abolition of anti-Italian sanctions, the small nations to-day accepted the inevitable and turned their attention to an immediate and thorough overhaul of the League Covenant, though they are in no way unanimous with regard to the methods to be employed.

Dr. P. R. Munch, Danish Foreign Minister, preferred improvement in the operation of the League to a revision of the Covenant.

Sir C. J. Parr, the New Zealand High Commissioner, advocated inviting all non-member states to attend the Assembly session in September.

Jhr. A. C. D. de Graeff, Holland's Foreign Minister, favoured modification of the Covenant because recent events had killed the hope of more satisfactory results if another case of aggression by a League member arose.

The Assembly was most impressed by Mr. Eamon de Valera's thorough-going proposal that the Great Powers get together and make sacrifices, because by a fraction of the sacrifices war would entail, the present menace could be averted.

The issue could be cleared up temporarily by the French resolution, now drafting, which reaffirms Article X, relating to the preservation of territorial integrity, and by the appointment of a commission to examine the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and to report to the Assembly in September.

In the meantime, an emergency meeting of the Council is contemplated to deal with the Danzig crisis, over which Mr. Sean Lester, the Irish High Commissioner for Danzig, has been specially summoned to Geneva.

Mr. Lester is most indignant at his treatment by the Germans and it is possible that Poland may be invited to act as intermediary between him and the German Government.

French Standpoint

The French standpoint with regard to the reform of the League Covenant will be indicated by Mr. Yves Delbos, the new Foreign Minister, when he speaks to the Assembly to-morrow. It is understood he favours re-interpreting Articles XI and XVI by a more binding interpretation, and also suppression of the rule of unanimity on the ground that it permits a potential aggressor to hold up action by the Council, and the establishment of a system of regional agreements binding the countries immediately interested to military sanctions, while other countries less interested would apply economic sanctions only.—Reuter.

Sad Confession

Geneva, July 2.
"The sad and bitter confession must be made that the League has abandoned the victim to his fate," said Mr. Eamon de Valera, the Irish Free State, speaking in the Assembly debate on sanctions to-day. "It is the fulfilment of the worst predictions of all who decried the League and said it could not succeed."

"Apparently no-one is ready to risk a war which might be transferred to Europe."

"Europe is obviously the danger point. Let us therefore set about the urgent task of preserving the peace of Europe and leave aside temporarily such questions as the alteration of the Covenant."

Mr. de Valera urged the use of the machinery provided in the Covenant to remove the obvious injustices existing and to make territorial and other adjustments which the present conditions demand. In other words, he asked that the obvious causes of war now threatening be removed.

Siam Wants Bigger Tin Production

Bangkok, July 2.

The Siamese Foreign Minister, interviewed by Reuter to-day, declared that Siam, while favouring a continuation of tin production restrictions, wants a quota of 18,000 to 20,000 tons on the ground that many provinces would find it possible to mine the metal and there is a real need to reduce unemployment.—Reuter.

Favours Sanctions

Geneva, July 2.
New Zealand's High Commissioner, Sir James Parr, informed the League Assembly that his Government favoured maintenance and intensification of sanctions against Italy.—Reuter.

Negus' Suggestions

Geneva, July 2.
Emperor Haile Selassie has laid before the League Assembly two resolutions, the first requesting a League membership loan of 500,000,000 under the terms of the Covenant, the second calling for the Assembly to proclaim non-recognition of forcibly annexed country.

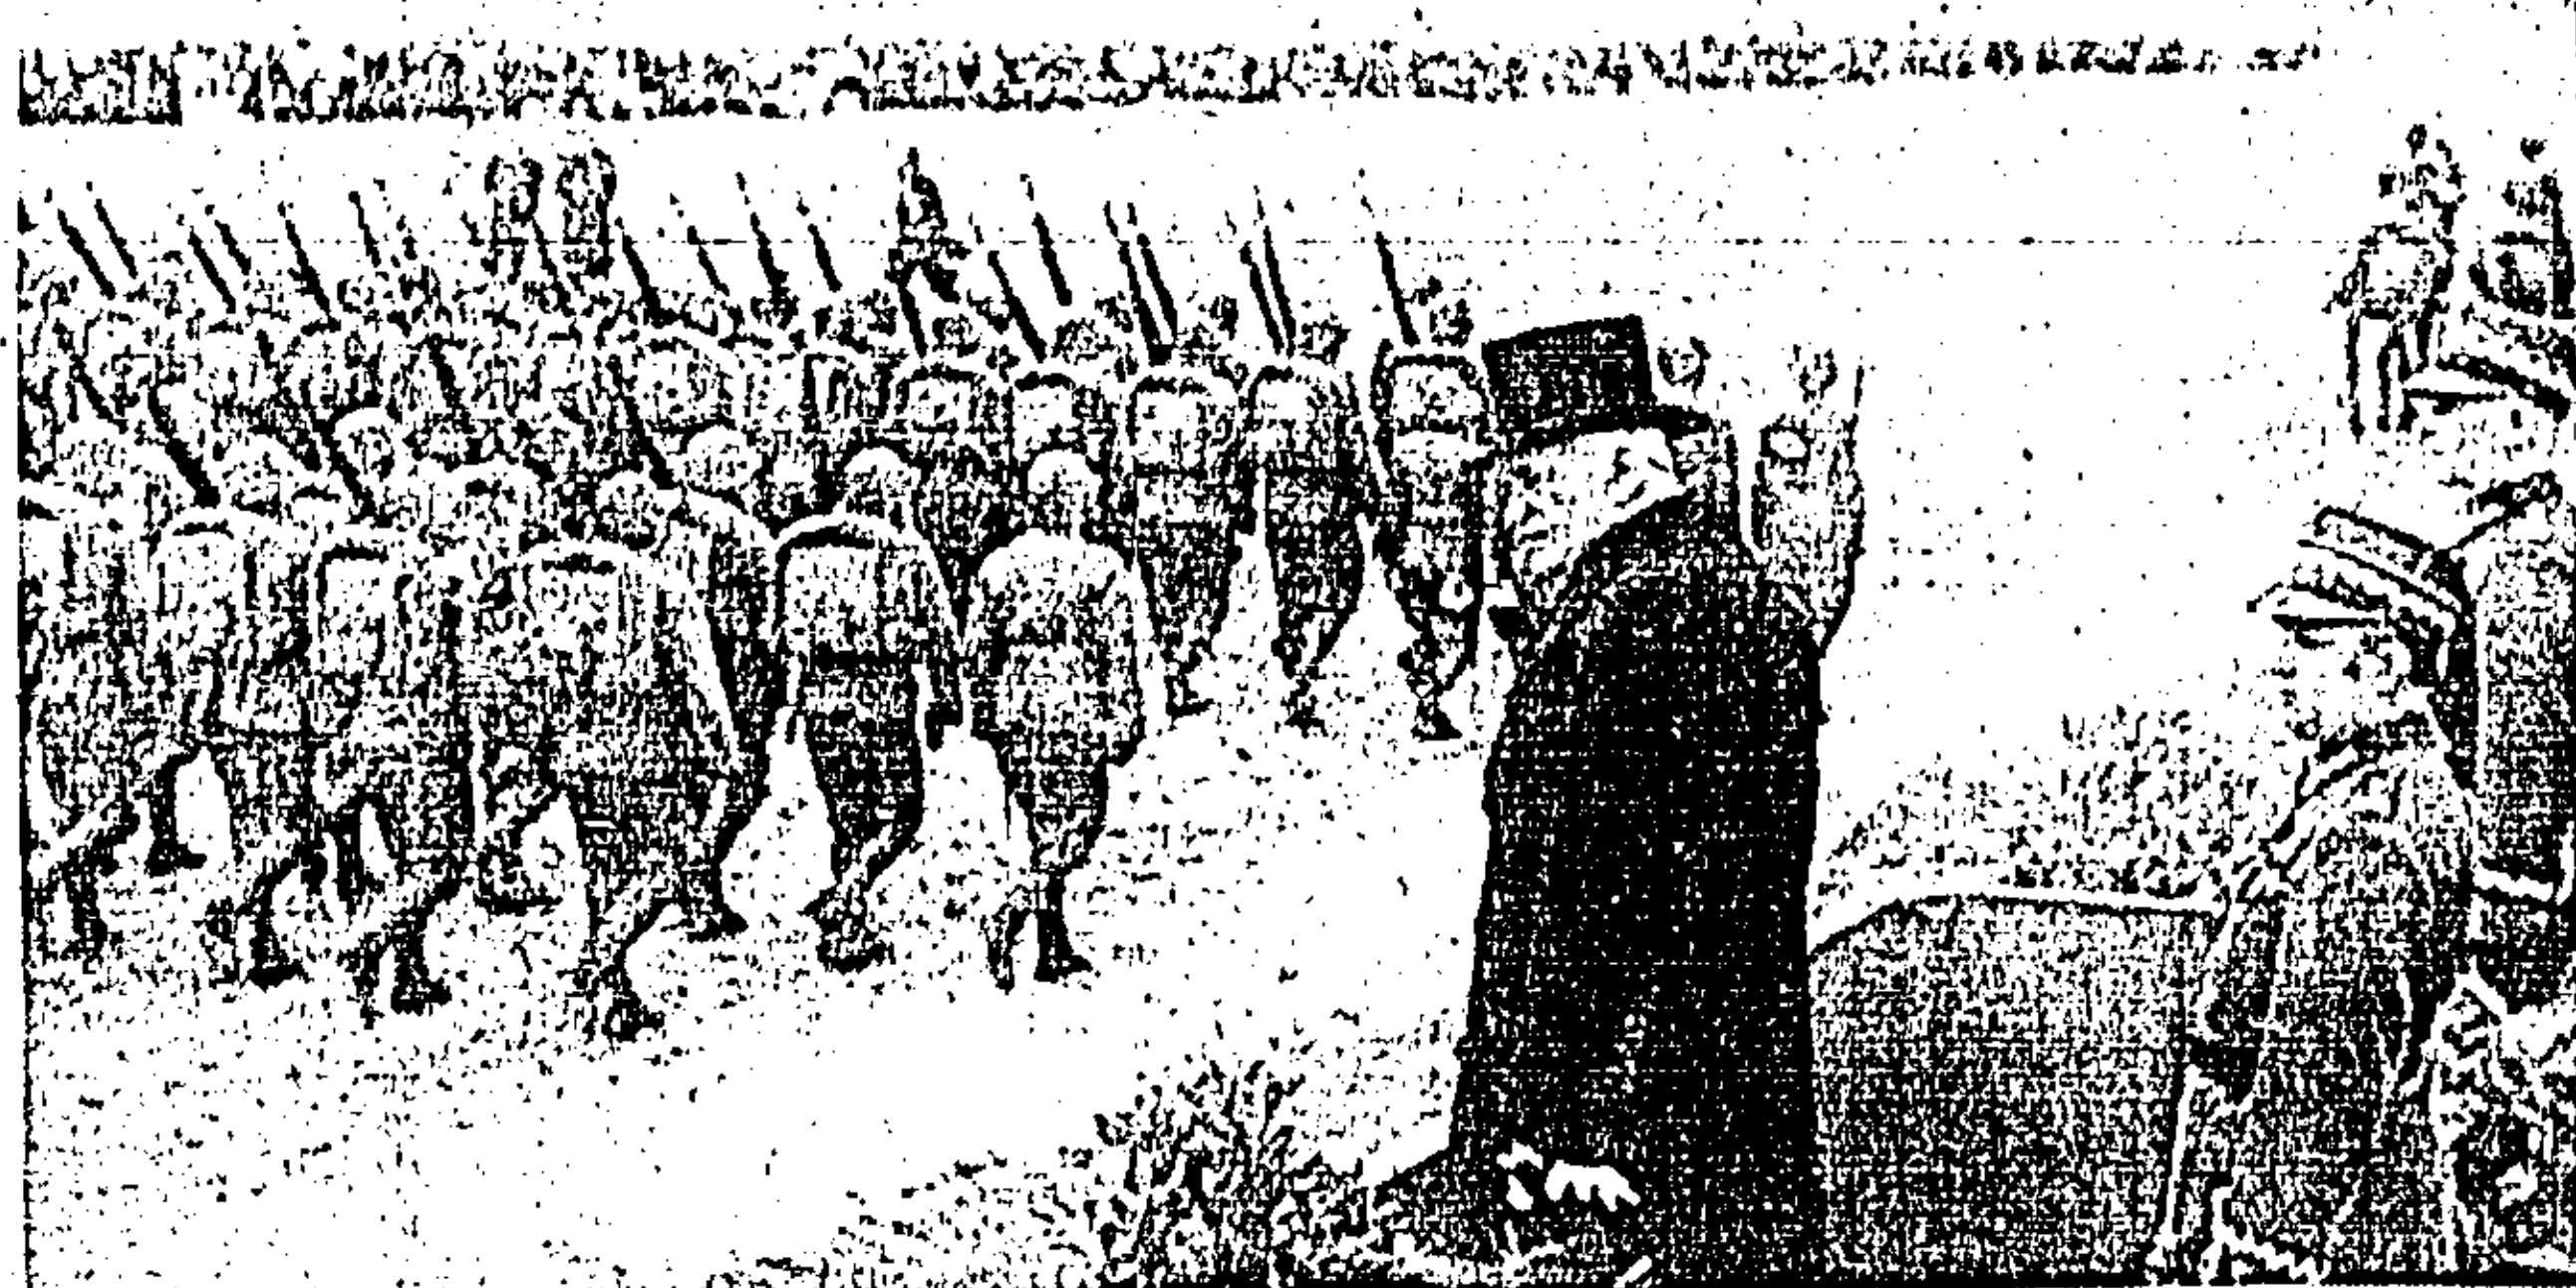

A covering note states that Ethiopia is taking these steps to invoke a clear manifestation of the majority of the League members.—Reuter.

Italian Solidarity

Geneva, July 2.
The Italian delegation to the League Assembly announces that the remainder of the Italian journalists have left Geneva in order to mark their solidarity with those of their companions who were expelled following the demonstration in the Assembly Chamber against Emperor Haile Selassie.

They have all gone to another Canton and will go home to Italy together.—Reuter.

POLAND'S PRESIDENT HONoured

With trouble brewing in Danzig, many European observers are watching Poland and Germany with some apprehension. M. Ignacy Moscicki, former university professor and for ten years president of Poland, may have turbulent days ahead. Here he is reviewing his troops on the occasion of the celebration of his tenth year as head of the state.

PROBING AMERICAN FINANCE

MORCENTHAU DEFENDS POSITION

ENORMOUS EXPENSE

Washington, July 2.

In his review of the fiscal year, which was broadcast throughout the nation to-day, Mr. Henry Morgenthau said that the United States Treasury's revenues were increasing while expenditures were decreasing, and business was steadily improving.

The Secretary of the Treasury cited figures showing that the deficit had increased and the public debt increased wholly as a result of the expenditures on relief measures, the Bonus payments and losses anticipated from the processing taxes revenue.

"We spent $8,500,000,000 excluding debt retirements," he asserted, "while actual receipts aggregated $4,116,000,000. The net excess of expenditures over receipts was $4,384,000,000, but without considering the veterans' payments of $1,700,000,000 the expenditures exceed receipts by $2,700,000,000."

Further Mr. Morgenthau pointed out that the invalidation of the A.A.A. cost the Treasury $500,000,000 in revenue.

Also he said that income tax revenue had increased by 30 per cent, miscellaneous taxes by 20 per cent, and Customs revenue by 12 per cent.

Mr. Morgenthau added that excluding the Bonus payments the listed expenditures included operating expenses of $2,500,000,000, including $750,000,000 for defence purposes; the annual continuance of payments to veterans, $500,000,000; interest on the public debt, $750,000,000; agricultural aid, $500,000,000; and other purposes $300,000,000.

Recovery and Relief purposes cost $3,000,000,000, including Public works, $800,000,000; direct relief, $500,000,000; Civilian Conservation Camps, $500,000,000; and home-owners aid, plus miscellaneous expenses, $250,000,000.

He said that one of the outstanding developments of the past three years was that the Government had reduced the average interest rate by nearly 1/4 thereby saving $260,000,000 annually.—United Press.

CONQUERORS COME HOME

Rome, July 2.

The first troops to return to Italy from Ethiopia, a battalion of Black shirts and university students, were given a triumphant welcome when they marched to the Palazzo Venezia, where Signor Benito Mussolini took the salute.

Thousands of flowers before the marching column, and girls students embraced the men as they passed.—Reuter.

LEAGUE'S SECOND FAILURE

NATURAL SEQUENCE TO 1931 INCIDENT

CHINA LOOKS TO FUTURE

Geneva, July 2.

Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese representative at the League Assembly session, speaking in the sanctions debate to-day, said the unhappy events of recent months were the natural sequence of the League's failure in the case of armed aggression started in September, 1931, by one member-state of the League against another.

China felt all the more keenly the loss of prestige and authority by the League, he went on, China sincerely believed in the principles on which the League was founded, and always loyally and faithfully supported it. If China now accepted the new collective decision of the Assembly, despite her profound sympathy for the other party to the conflict, she would do so in the same spirit as she had applied sanctions, provided only that such acceptance was in no way prejudicial to the fundamental principles of the Covenant.

The Chinese delegation held the opinion that the failure of the League with regard to sanctions was not due to the insufficiency or inefficiency of the measures provided by the Covenant, but rather to the policy and method of application adopted.

COLLECTIVE SYSTEM

The Chinese delegation believed that collective security was the only system that could finally ensure the maintenance of universal peace and the prevention of armed aggression. But if the members of the League wished to rely upon such a scheme, then as M. Maxim Litvinoff (of Russia) so well said, they must defend it by all means, even by resort to armed force.

Referring to the objection that the burden of the application of military measures would fall principally upon the major powers, Mr. Koo declared that it was fair that the stronger powers should contribute more since they had the greater interests at stake, and so would benefit more from peace.

For the effective organisation and maintenance of peace, the principle of universality was indispensable, Mr. Koo concluded.—Reuter.

CARDINALS MAINTAIN CUBS' FAST PACE

New York, July 2.

St. Louis Cardinals won against Pittsburgh to-day, four to two, hitting eleven times to seven, and playing an air-tight game in the field. But Chicago, leading the Cardinals by a shade for League honours, also won against Cincinnati, eight to six. Cubs Reds hit fifteen times each, but the former profited by three errors on the part of their opponents.

New York beat Boston seven to six, although the Giants had one less hit. The Braves hit thirteen and committed four errors. Philadelphia shut out Brooklyn, 10 to 0.

DROUGHT MENACE GROWING

AMERICA FACING HUGE LOSSES

WHEAT PRICE GOES UP

Washington, July 2.

The Weather Bureau has reported that the drought areas in the United States need rain at present worse than they did in 1930 or 1934. The Bureau has further pointed out that on previous occasions the drought situation has become worse during the months of July and August.

The Secretary of Agriculture has started on a three weeks' tour of the stricken areas, following the appointment of an Agricultural Committee to present a specific programme to President Roosevelt before the week-end.

In South Dakota during the months of May and June there was 32 per cent of the normal rainfall as compared with 60 per cent, during the corresponding months in the drought period of 1934.

There have been rains to-night in the Southern portion of the corn belt, together with lowering temperatures.—United Press.

ELEVEN DIE ON ARCTIC EXPEDITION

FEARFUL ORDEAL IN OPEN BOAT

BASE SHIP MISSING

Moscow, July 3.

Twelve members of the Soviet hydrological expedition scientifically surveying the Arctic Circle, who left their base ship in an open boat recently, were caught in a terrible gale and swept out to sea, according to reports just received.

Only one man of the party survived the experience, one drowning and ten dying of cold and hunger.

A second vessel belonging to the expedition, which reported the tragedy and presumably picked up the one survivor, is now itself missing.—Reuter.

BALDWIN WON'T RESIGN

BENEFITS FROM HOLIDAY

FUTURE OF SANCTIONS

(Special To "Telegraph")

London, July 2.

There is no foundation for the suggestion that a change in the premiership of Great Britain is likely Reuter learns.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, was evidently in extremely good spirits when he returned to the House of Commons to-day, having obviously benefited by his short holiday.

It is emphasised that in a month's time Mr. Baldwin will probably be able to leave London for an extended holiday, which should completely restore his usual good health.—Reuter.

DENIES RESIGNATION

London, July 2.

At a speech at a banquet in London to-night, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, denied that his resignation was imminent. He denied that any doctors had visited him at Chequers.

Explaining the reasons for the raising of sanctions against Italy, Mr. Baldwin said that the moment had come when further pressure might lead to war, and once war were lost in Europe no-one could know how far it would spread.

If Britain is to impose sanctions again she would do so with open eyes, and the realisation that her action would probably bring war.

"We go to Geneva in the autumn to consider the future of the League and to make another effort to assure peace by collective security. It is our strongest desire to bring together France and Germany, without whose collaboration the peace of Europe is impossible," he asserted.—Reuter.

PREMIER CHEERED

London, July 2.

Ten minutes cheering greeted the arrival of Mr. Stanley Baldwin in the House of Commons to-day, after a few days' absence during his recuperation from the strain of recent events. The cheers gained in heartiness in consequence of the rumours in a portion of the press regarding the Prime Minister's health and his possible retirement.

Replying to a question from the Labour member, Mr. Johnson regarding Lord Londonderry's recent speech in which he contradicted the Premier's assertion that he had been misled about the rate of acceleration of German re-armament a year or more ago, Mr. Baldwin said he intended no reflection upon any department or individual.

He added it was always very difficult to obtain accurate information about a country which published no defence estimates.

The Government was satisfied that its present information of Germany's air strength, which was derived from a variety of sources, represented the actual state of affairs, as far as could be accurately obtained.—Reuter.

BRITISH OFFICER WOUNDED

VICTIM OF ARAB SNIPERS

CLASH NEAR ALGIERS

Jerusalem, July 2.

Ambushes of police and military patrols by Arab marksmen are still the order of the day in Palestine. A British officer and private were slightly wounded when their patrol was fired on by snipers on the outskirts of Jerusalem to-day.

A new step has been taken by the Arabs to embarrass the Government. They have started a hunger strike in the concentration.—Reuter.

GRAVE RIOTING

Algiers, July 2.

Rioting involving Arabs, Jews and Europeans is occurring almost daily, and to-day 1,000 Arabs, carrying a red flag, attempted to take a small town near Algiers.

Police and soldiers were rushed to the scene and after a few hours dispersed the demonstrators, who bombarded the police and troops with paving stones brought by lorry.

Let your children Sunbathe Slowly

then summer heat
will not affect them

CHILDREN are the real sunbathers of the year. Long before we get into sun clothes ourselves the younger generation have exposed legs, arms, heads and necks to the sun and air.

Sunbathing cannot begin too early. The sooner you allow your child to sunbathe, the sooner he or she will acquire that healthy tan on his legs, arms and neck, and be quite ready for hot sunshine.

Sunbathing done gradually is beneficial to every one. Sunbathing done suddenly in the heat of July is injurious to most.

They could not stand the Sun

FROM California comes the news of some interesting experiments being carried out by Dr. Eder at an institution for infants.

Working to cure anemia in children, he suddenly discovered that their reaction to sunshine and the amount they could stand was a better test of the amount of iron in the body than any of the present accepted blood tests.

He found, for instance, that pale and party-looking children could have a normal iron metabolism, namely, the right amount of red corpuscles in the blood, but that these children still looked delicate and were quite unable to stand an hour without blistering.

This also does away with Freckles

IGNORING the blood test, he continued to add iron to their diet, and within two months all of them could stand warm sunshine, had better colour, and were tanning beautifully without any injury to the skin whatsoever.

Sufficient iron in children's bodies has not only been found to prevent sun-burning, but it has also caused freckling in both children and adults to disappear. This is another instance of the vital link between iron and the skin.

Depends on the Diet

THERE is always a risk in too early sunbathing for tiny babies, for the simple reason that milk is a poor source of iron. In fact, if an infant is kept too long on milk alone it will become anemic.

Once a child is on a proper diet containing such foods as spinach, yolk of egg, liver, lightly cooked beef, apples, lentils, dried peas, potatoes, wheat, then you can safely expose it to the sun. The first five of the foods mentioned above have the greatest amount of iron, and if these are in the regular diet then you will not need iron preparations.

Look at its Face

YOU should be able to tell from the child's face whether it is ready for strong sunshine or not. Don't plunge a pale child suddenly into strong sunlight. Build it up first with a good diet.

The same applies to the fair or the red-haired child who freckles. Start them out of doors gradually, keeping them at exercise in the weak sunshine and at the same time add extra iron to their diet. Then, as they begin to get a good colour in their cheeks, you may begin to expose their bodies to more and stronger sunshine and they will not suffer any harm.

employees. If you find your work absolutely the same from day to day and are therefore, getting restless and inefficient, pluck up your courage and ask whether you may be tried out in another department and gradually work right round the office.

This is a most reasonable request and is definitely to the advantage of your employer: a girl who can turn her hand to any job is a great business asset.

It may cheer you to know that the higher the intelligence the less efficient an individual becomes in a monotonous task. This was discovered in research work done by experts on factory labour in Great Britain.

The very intelligent start a monotonous job with a rush and gradually fall off, getting tired and worse at it each day. The less intelligent start slowly and then work up to a good maximum speed which is kept for a long time.

Touch Typing

IT is possible to become an efficient typist in twenty-four hours. By efficient is understood a speed of sixty words a minute, a knowledge of legal, tabulating and display work, and an understanding of the different parts of your machine.

The twenty-four hours are divided up into ten lessons—what would be roughly one term at a secretarial college—and the claim is made by a woman who has had sound experience in this direction.

It can only be done by learning touch-typing immediately and by getting into a good rhythm of work—this is usually done by typing to, and in, time with a gramophone record.

A point that has arisen with shorthand typists is the important one of eye strain. It is realised by opticians that shorthand typing is a great strain on the sight, and for that reason those so employed should be very kind to their eyes out of office hours.

A nightly bath for the eyes, a curtailment of close reading during the week, and as much time out of doors as possible are very important points for those wishing to avoid spectacles at an early age.

In the office, correct shaded lighting coming from over the left shoulder and shining on your work and not on your face, should be insisted on by every shorthand typist.

TURN Your BACK to Fashion

Tudor Ruffs

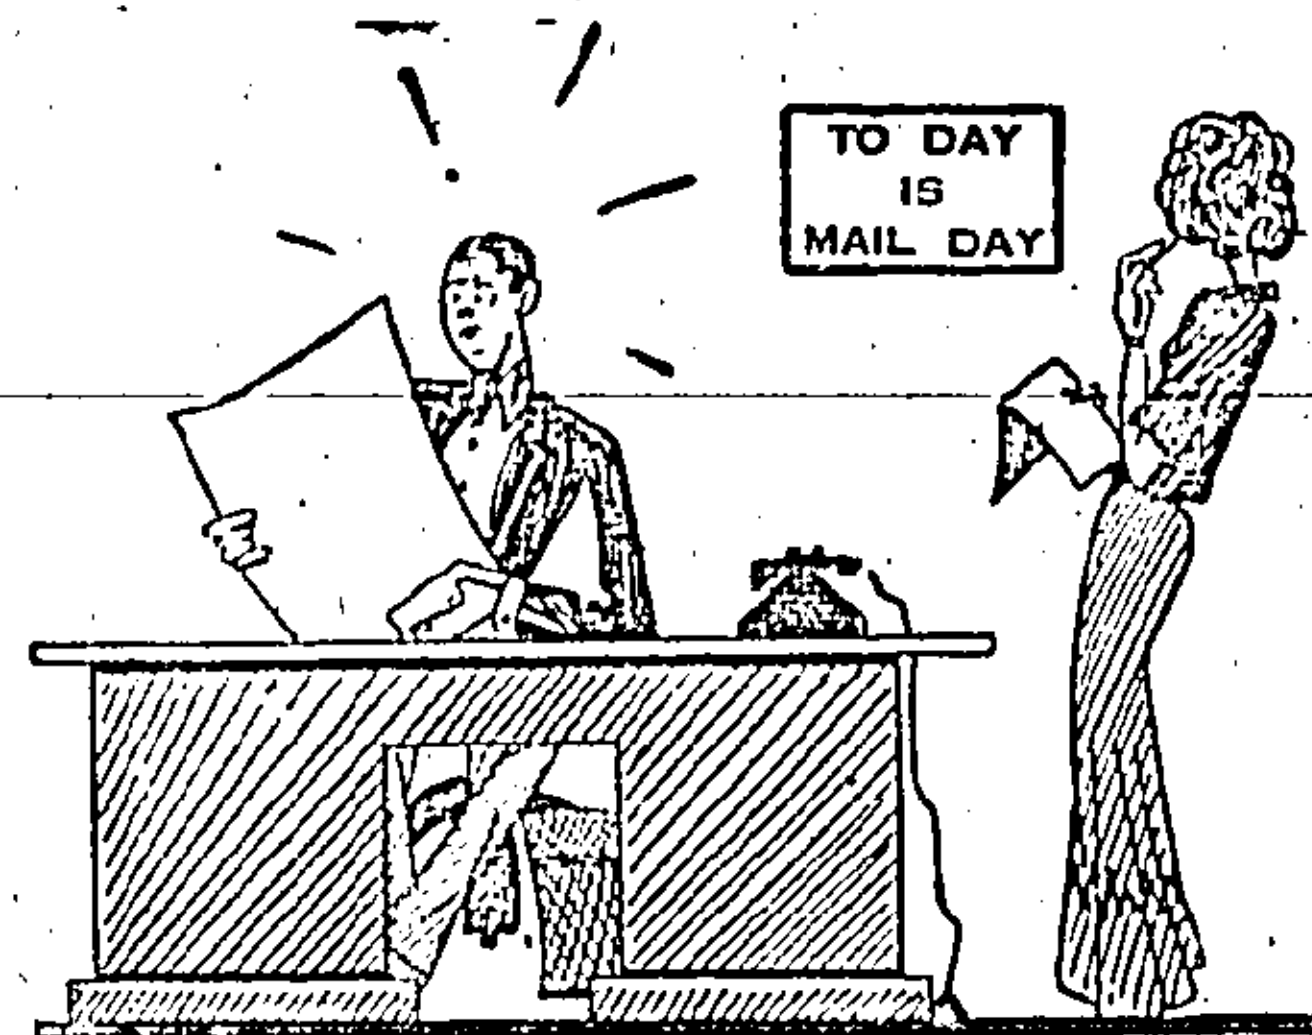

Night V's

Sun Braces

Tilted Hats

THIS year's date is written on your back. A flower and a sash bow at the centre back are the only trimming on a dress of pale green chiffon. The dark day dress is slashed and edged with pleated ruffs, whilst the hip tilted hat is held in place by a broad band trimmed with ribbon bows. For sport there's a tennis frock with flat plaits in the skirt. The sunbather wears braces and a collar handkerchief on her head.

The morning after the night before: and what a day it's hard on you, but why pass your grouches on to others—for instance the little lady in the office?

Under such circumstances Pinkettes are perfection. Taken just before going to bed, they enable you to rise feeling fit and fresh in the morning. There is nothing better to aid digestion, stimulate the liver, dispel constipation, banish biliousness and sick headache, in short to quickly remove the causes of your ill-temper and gloom!

Business Girl's CORNER

THE business girl's most usual complaint is that her work is so often monotonous. Girls who are working modern office machines week in and week out, although efficient and intelligent, have absolutely no work which requires any brain effort.

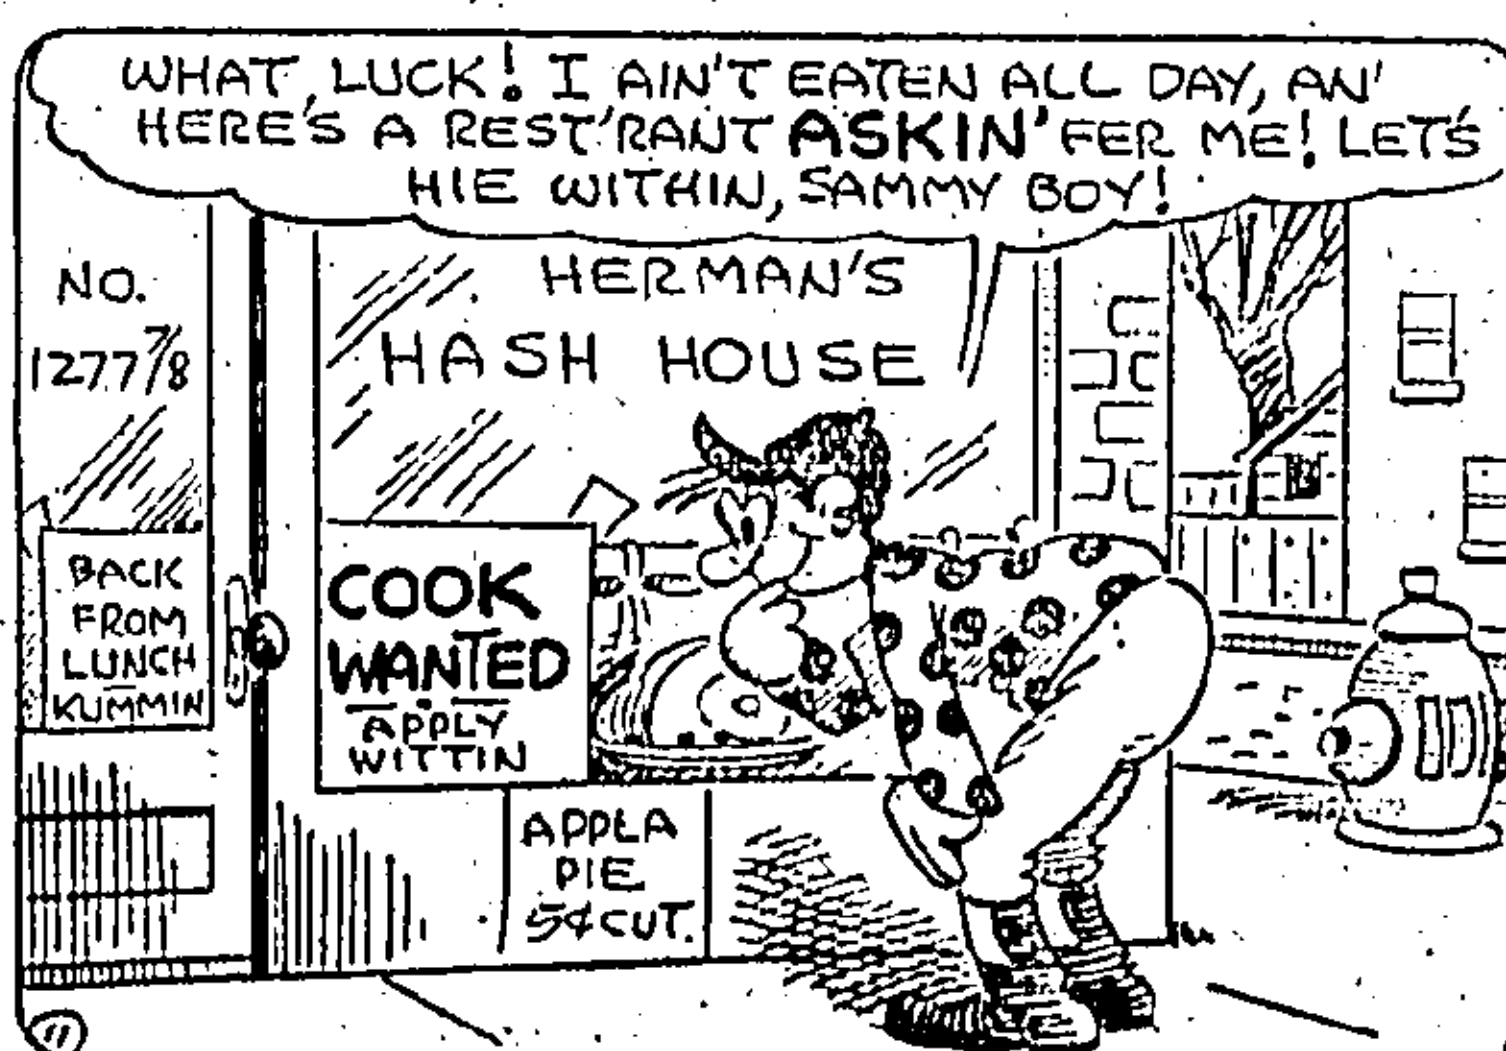

They do not ask for higher salaries, but merely for their work to be more enjoyable. This seems very reasonable.

Monotony

BUT the answer business men make is quite as reasonable. "We employ girls in these jobs, first, because they are cheaper, and second because only 15 per cent. have any intution of carving out a permanent career in our businesses. It is not therefore worth our while to train them for the more attractive and interesting positions."

The question rests jointly on employer, and broad Cockney accent, whether it be to King or bar-room cronies, and her language verges at times on the lurid. With her full lips and buxom figure she laughs her way through the film in a way that is wholly captivating. Sir Cedric Hardwicke, with a make-up which bears a most striking resemblance to portraits of the Stuart King, gives a convincing performance as Charles II. Charles emerges from the film not only as the Merry Monarch but as a great statesman. Whether he is playing the gallant lover to Nell or conferring with his ministers on matters of state, Sir Cedric makes the King arresting and entertaining. A brilliant supporting cast, mainly famous stage personalities includes Jeanne de Casalis, Esme Percy, Helena Pickard, Miles Malletson, Muriel George, Lawrence Anderson, O. B. Clarence, Tonie Bruce and Moore Marriott.

"Break of Hearts"

For the first time in her meteoric screen career Katharine Hepburn is said to be cast in a role which definitely brings out every side of her vibrant personality. The star's current characterization in "Break of Hearts", now at the Star Theatre, combines the light comedy highlights of "Morning Glory" with the human qualities of "Little Women" and the tenderness of "The Little Minister". And it presents Miss Hepburn also in modern, fashionable gowns, designed by Bernard Newman, R.C. Radio's internationally known stylist. Qualities which are combined in Miss Hepburn's new role are those she has demonstrated in pictures which have won international acclaim as among the best ever produced. I was for her work in "Morning Glory" that Miss Hepburn won the Academy award for last year's best performance. Charles Boyer is co-starred with Miss Hepburn in "Break of Hearts". Other principals include John Beal, Jean Herscholt, John Millard and Susan Fleming. Philip Modley and Jane Loring directed.

CAPE TOWN PLANS DEFENCE AND AERIAL DEVELOPMENT

London, July 2. The South African Minister of Defence, Mr. Pirow who left for Cape Town yesterday after spending some three weeks in England, made a statement expressing his satisfaction with the results of his visit, and declared himself particularly grateful to the United Kingdom ministers for their readiness to appreciate the South African view point on defence matters.

There had been the useful discussions about Cape Town defences which would enable him to make proposals to the Union Government which he considered highly satisfactory.

There had been agreement that civil air routes in Africa, more particularly in the Cape Province, should be developed in close consultation between the United Kingdom and South Africa.

The expansion of the Cape Town harbour scheme in terms of what is known in South Africa as the Long-range scheme, would mean a vast improvement of the dock and repair facilities and would certainly favour the increased use of the port by mercantile shipping.

Shipping interests consulted had expressed the opinion that the increased use of the South African route is likely to be maintained. This route is the possible alternative for some of the traffic between the United Kingdom and Australia, which now passes through the Mediterranean.

Both the United Kingdom Board of Trade and Australian Minister of Commerce have themselves sympathized with the proposed expansion of Cape Town harbour.

Mr. Pirow added that the number of minor matters, mostly of a technical nature and dealing with the supply of certain types of machinery, had been discussed and disposed of in consultation. The Times describes Mr. Pirow's mission as "welcome but not unexpected proof that the basis of Empire co-operation resides where in the last analysis it must reside, in the common needs of constituent members." It adds that at the moment when most of the world is thinking largely in terms of defence such evidence of working solidarity within the Empire is all the more encouraging.—British Wireless.

HOARDERS CONTINUE NERVOUS

BUT FRENCH GOLD DRAIN STOPPED
STERLING IN DEMAND

London, July 2. For the first time since March 26 the Bank of France returns reveal an increase of gold holdings, which, although they only amount to £607,000, are nevertheless noteworthy as they show at long last a definite check on the drain of yellow metal out of France.
On the other hand, however, some quarters criticise the smallness of the increase, pointing out that although the outward flow of capital may have ceased confidence apparently has not yet returned to a point at which currency hoarders will disgorge any large volume of holdings.
In this respect it is interesting to observe that the British bank note circulation figure reached another record last month, which, while primarily attributable to the holiday demand, demonstrates the reluctance of Continental hoarders to part with sterling notes.—Reuter.

win over St. Louis, getting seventeen hits, including home runs by Hale and Knickerbocker, to the Browns' thirteen, including homers by Cliff and Belma, in the first of a double-header.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland won the second game four to two, hitting seven times to five. There were no errors. Tronky hit a homer.
Washington beat Philadelphia four to three, though Senators had one error and each had eight hits.
Detroit defeated Chicago seven to one, hitting ten times to seven. The White Sox had two of the three errors.

Werber's home run aided the Red Sox, but Boston was one run short of New York's total of eight, as the Yankees hit sixteen to thirteen, and had one of the four errors.—Reuter.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE MARKET IRREGULAR YESTERDAY

New York, July 2.
Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Dow Jones summary of yesterday's markets:—The market to-day was irregularly lower on breaks in steel shares after an early rise. Farm-equipment issues weakened on the drought situation. Many issues, however, held steady and registered minor gains until the heavy selling of steel stocks commenced. In the final hour, motor shares were also unloaded, on the theory that the shut-down in the steel industry will cripple the automobile production capacity. Some utility securities met with support. The market for bonds was irregularly lower, while stocks on the Curb Exchange were irregular.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks. Securities to-day were in fair demand and the undertone was

Features

To-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement will contain a varied selection of topical illustrations.

There will be several pictures of the inspection of the Police Force by H.E. the Governor, a group taken at the wedding of Mr. W. E. B. Howel and Miss Grace Hills, another of the Volunteer Defence Corps, and others of the Ellis Knickerbocker Indian School staff and students.

Also appearing will be further entries in the Telegraph Amateur Photographic Competition.

The Supplement will contain the popular entertainment and feature pages, results of last week's Children's Competition, and details of a new contest for the kiddies.

From The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has received an order for 19,000 tons of steel.

Cotton: Private estimates are tending to a smaller acreage and yield. Mills were good buyers, while the textile market is active and prices are advancing. Sentiment is bullish. The heavy rains in South Texas are beneficial to the crop.

Wheat: There is no material relief in the drought section and apprehension regarding the Canadian crop has caused short covering. The light heading is due to the fact that farmers are holding the movement. Messrs. J. E. Bennett & Company estimate the crop at 122,000,000 bushels. The Government estimates the world carryover at 635,000,000 bushels as compared with 555,000,000 bushels last year. The carryover in the United States is estimated at 125,000,000 bushels against 152,000,000 bushels in Winnipeg. The price variation limit of 5 cents will be effective as from to-morrow.

Rubber: The firmness of the primary markets is attracting attention.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal's morning comment:—"The leading Car companies' earnings for the past six months will probably be above those of last year. Heavy buying of Electric Bond & Share stocks is reported. The machine-tool business is expected to show an excellent second 6 months. The drought in the West is growing as a more important market factor. Wall Street expects that favourable business reports and dividends will continue. The Street is convinced that there will be a steel strike later in the year. Most of the buying orders from London are for utility securities. There is an increasing demand for high-priced stocks."

"BEDFORD" A TOUGH, POPULAR TRUCK

—and a Service worthy of it!

EVERY month big shipments of Bedford trucks leave England for every part of the world. And the rising export figures and many hundreds of enthusiastic letters from Bedford owners all over the world have shown that the Bedford is popular wherever it goes. Why this success? For, in designing the Bedford range, Vauxhall experts studied overseas conditions at first hand. They learnt what was wanted in trucks from the very men who were going to use them. And there is a world-wide organisation to make Bedford service and genuine spares available everywhere.

Tested at every stage in the famous Luton works in England, proved sound and reliable on the roughest work in the world, the Bedford is a first-class investment whatever the nature of work.

There's a Bedford Model for every business.

MISCHIEF-MAKING BY RADIO

The reference in the House of Commons last week to the Italian propaganda, broadcast in Arabic in the Near East, for the particular benefit of Palestine, raises a matter of which official British notice had to be taken. It is, indeed, a subject which, according to the Colonial Secretary, is receiving the careful attention of the Palestine Government. This obvious effort to stir up ill-will against Britain illustrates the point that wireless is a somewhat mixed blessing, for it is constantly being utilised to set nation against nation and people against people. The propaganda emanating from the Italian stations has been purposely designed with the object of causing mischief in Palestine and other countries in the law and order of which the British Government is closely interested, and it has recently been the subject of much comment in the London press. The mischief-makers start with a distinct advantage, for it is the easiest thing in the world to play upon the prejudices of a people, be they Arabs or Hindus, who imagine they have a grievance against the British or any other Government. A few malicious insinuations and unfounded allegations may suffice to sow the seeds of widespread revolt. To counter the effects of such propaganda is always difficult and often impossible. If Mussolini wishes the British Government and people to believe that he seeks to renew good relations with them, and that he does not harbour designs on any of the Mediterranean or other territories in which Britain is interested, this propaganda, which is more in keeping with Moscow methods than Roman civilisation, should be stopped. The prostitution of wireless is not in keeping with the honour or prestige of a Great Power that aspires to become greater still. Anti-British propaganda is, unhappily, not confined to radio broadcasts; it has long been evident in the Italian Press, with the result that the Italian people have been given a perverted sense of Britain and all things British, and have been taught to believe that every official assertion from Britain is false and made with evil intent. There is a danger in these tactics, for, as a recent writer in the Times stated, any Dictator can fill his country with hatred and a spirit of war at will. The first necessity for Signor Mussolini, if he wishes to dissipate the feelings aroused in England by Italian aggression in Ethiopia, is that he should take steps to cause a cessation of anti-British propaganda and lead his people in the ways of goodwill with as much earnestness and assiduity as he has hitherto shown in infusing ill-will into their daily thoughts. He obviously has the power to make this contribution to the restoration of the traditional friendship between the two nations, a friendship which has been severely strained by the events of the recent past.

If WELLS Went to WIMBLEDON

Perry and Von Cramm Meet in the Singles Final To-day. Their Herculean Struggle will be the Culmination of Nearly Six Decades of History-Making Tennis by the World's Greatest Players.

By R. Maillard Stoad

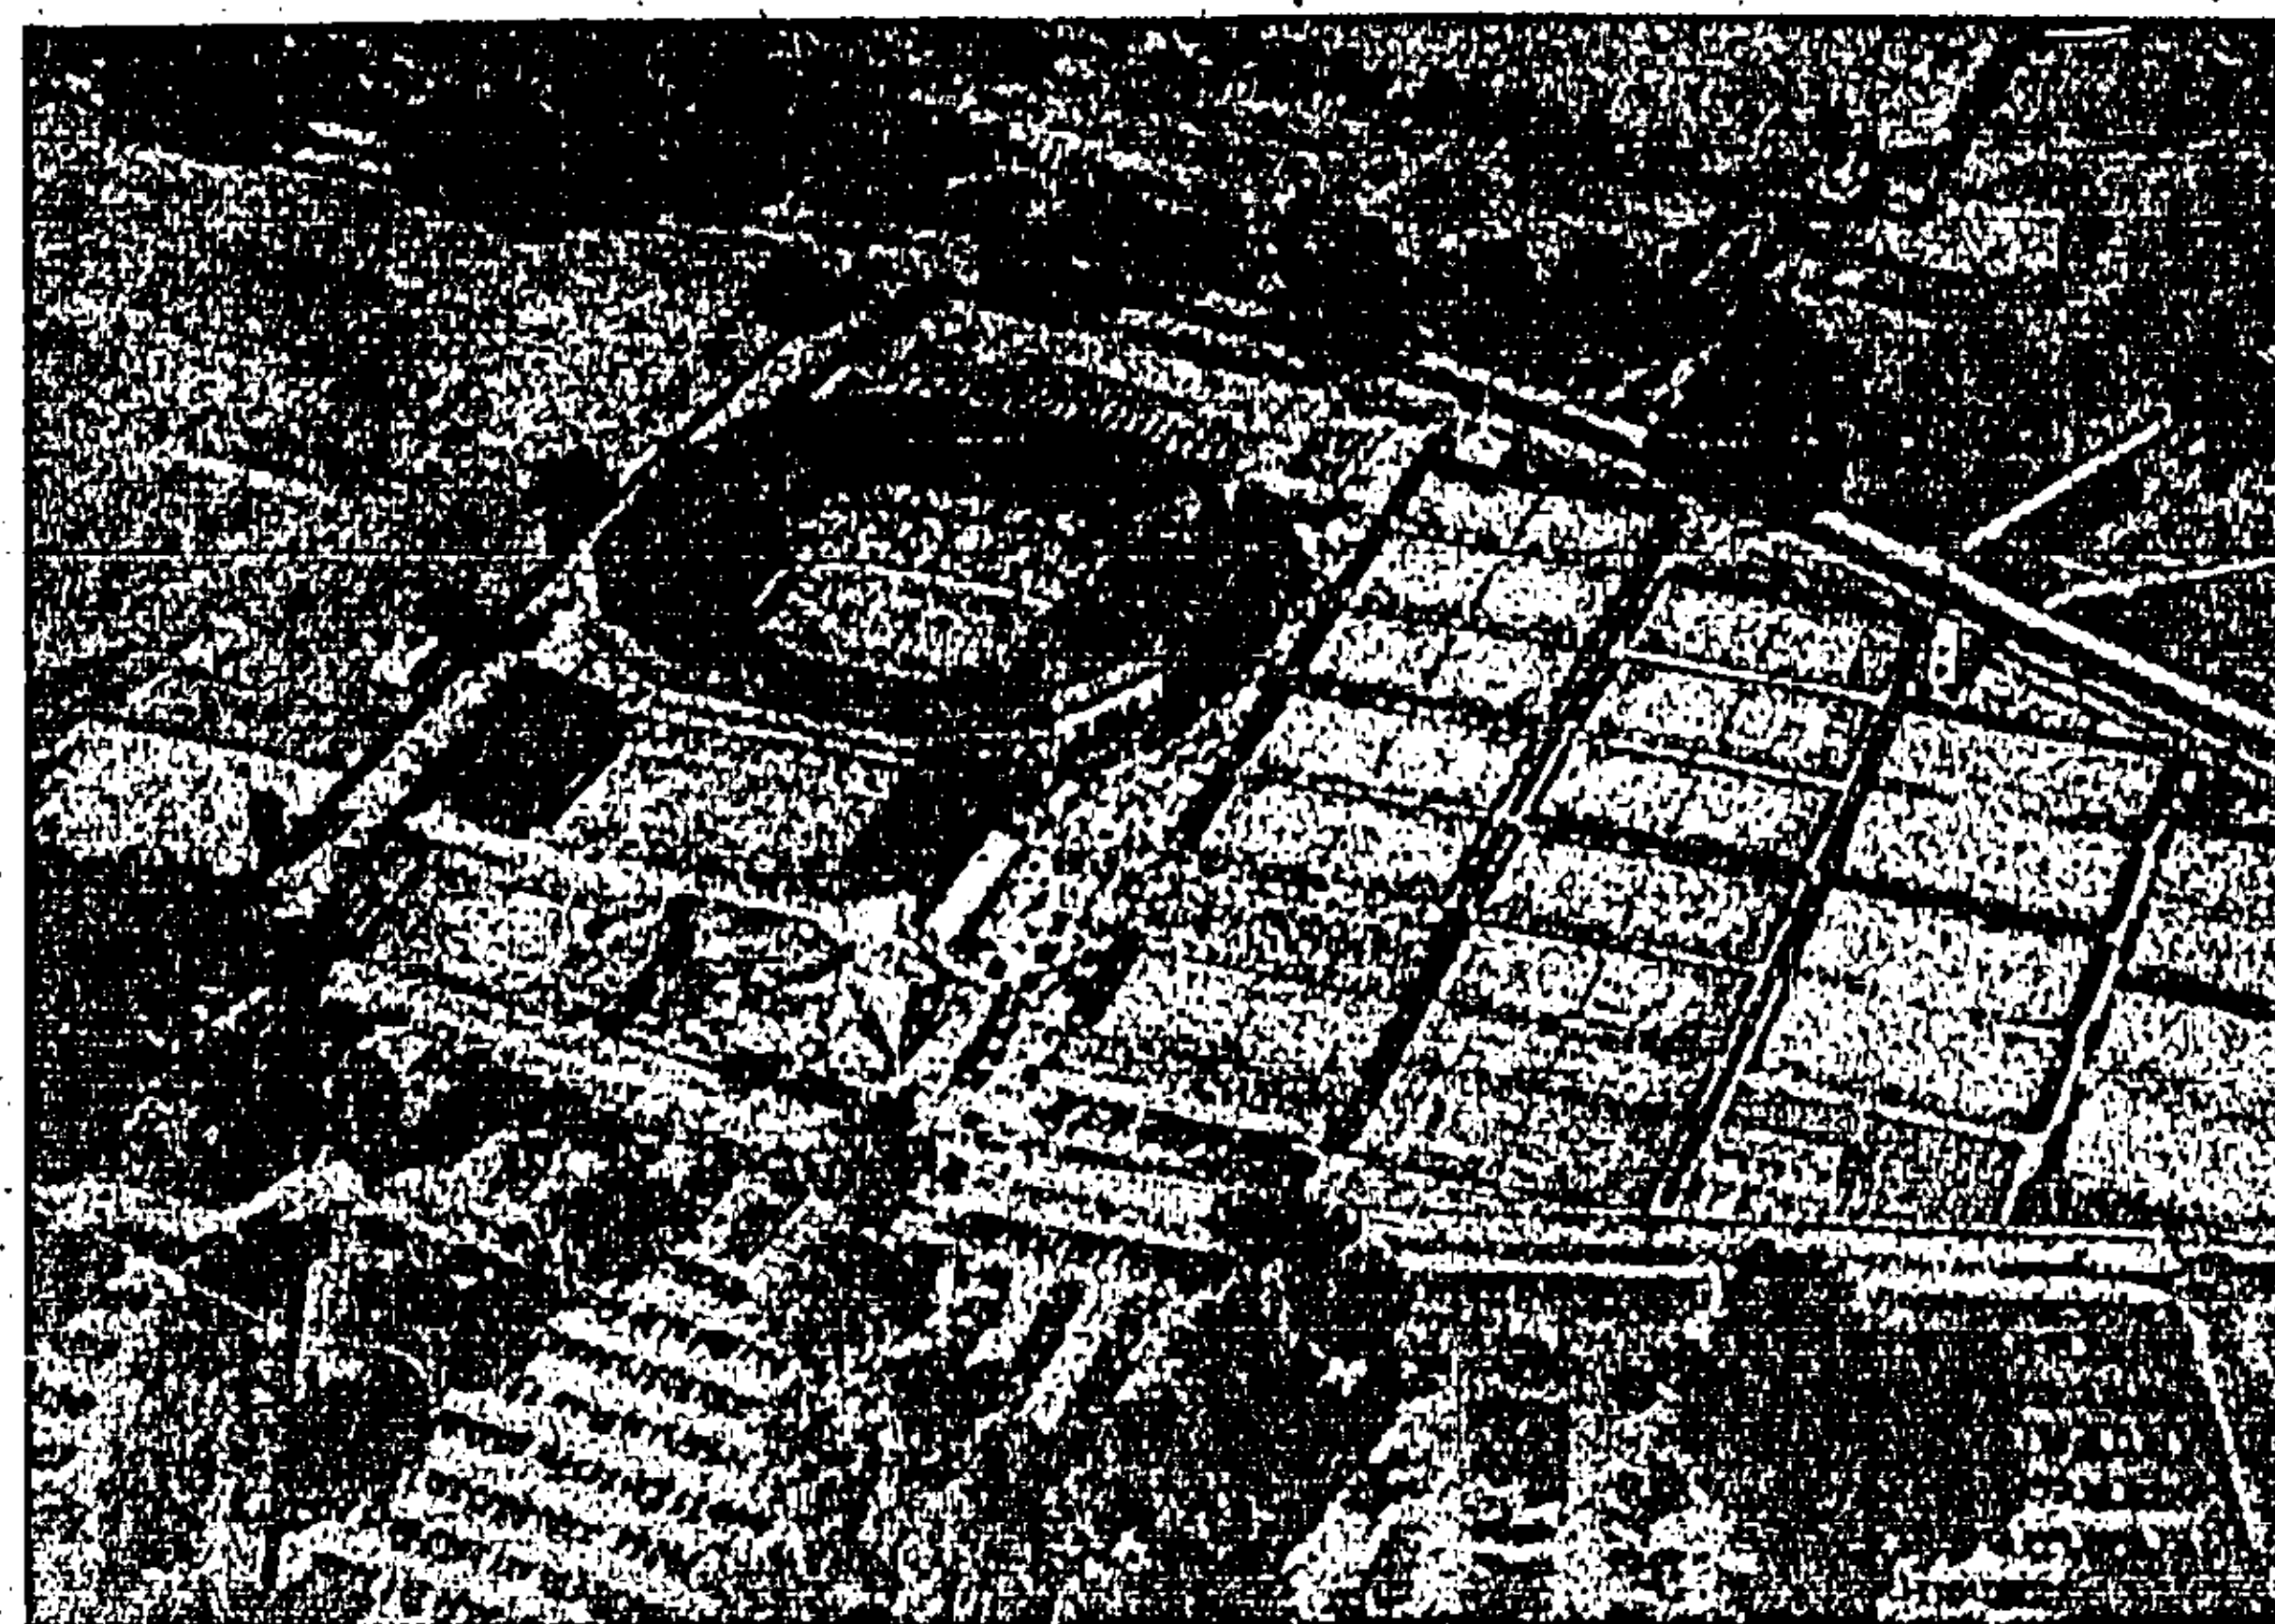

"If you can meet with Triumph
and Disaster
And treat those two impostors
just the same."

THE world's greatest lawn tennis players stride to victory or defeat each year under these famous words of Rudyard Kipling, carved over the portals of the centre court at Wimbledon. Flanking the panel on which the quotation is engraved, in the hallway of the All-England Club, are the rolls of champions, those immortals of the game who came and saw and conquered. A mighty line they are, stretching back through the years to a time when Wimbledon was merely a suburb of South-west London and lawn tennis was merely lawn tennis.

It would be tremendous fun if we could smuggle H. G. Wells's handy little invention, the Time Machine, past the Wimbledon defences, and take a round trip to 1877. It would not be an unbroken excursion through the yesterday, for back of 1922 we should find ourselves in the open country, confronted with the necessity for a short intercalary journey through a few hundred yards of space to Worple Road, the Mecca of players in the heroic age of the game. Arrived at this arena—a humble stadium compared with the £140,000 amphitheatre of modern times—we could buzz along merrily again on all cylinders, tracing Wimbledon careers of champions from the end to the beginning, until the needle of the gauge shows 1877. That is where we get out.

BRRRRR! It's raining; and the 200 spectators who paid a shilling each to get in for the first Wimbledon final are not looking too chirpy. Surely there is something odd about the net. Let's ask this young man with the flowing mustaches and the top hat. What does he say? Oh, really. Five feet high at the ends and only 3 feet 3 inches in the middle. Our informant says that this arrangement doesn't help S. W. Gore, as he is a player of the rackets school and likes to make shots down where the side walls would be in a rackets court. W. Mitchell, his opponent, is "real" tennis man, but he can't seem to get a real offensive going. Gore is pinning him onto the base line and coming up to make volleys at the net. How strange it seems to see men serving underhand! I wonder how Perry would shape with the rum-looking shrimp-net rackets and "dead" balls that they are using in the first big lawn tennis competition ever held. The players are not having an easy time on the wet turf and proceedings are suspended several times before Gore wins at 6-1, 6-2, 6-4. Hats off to the first champion!

The rules of play have been completely overhauled for this meeting. And players are feeling that it was about time. They didn't care much for the laws drawn up by the tennis committee of the Marylebone Cricket Club, to govern "Sphairistike," which (believe it or not) was the name given by gallant Major Wingfield to his 1874 invention of "a new and improved portable court for playing the ancient game of tennis." The rules of "Sticky," as played with much giggling on the garden lawns of Victorian England, varied according to preference and the disposition of the flower beds. A laurel bush or two on the court was just a rub of the green. Much more hoisterous fun, though, than croquet, which lawn tennis succeeded both at the vicarage and at the All-England Croquet and Lawn Tennis Club.

WELLS, we can't stay any longer in 1877. We'll just glide through the early "pat-ball" years to the time of the Renshaw twins, when real hitting started and people ceased to regard hard volleys as a dirty business. We see one uncompromising figure driving from the base line against the smashing Renshaws. That, of course, is H. F. Lawford, who committed himself on paper to the dictum that "Perfect base-line play will beat perfect volleying." He tried very strenuously to prove it, but he found himself adopting volleying tactics in the end. From the crucible of Lawford-Renshaw battles emerged the modern all-court game, a bit rough round the edges.

What! More brothers? The Dohertys this time, and they are certainly good-looking boys. In the decade starting about 1897 we don't see much else. Between them these "Princes Charming"—chivalrous, handsome and skilful—won the Wimbledon championship nine times and the doubles eight times. Those gentlemen with black shoes whom we saw them play in 1901 were Americans—Dwight Davis and Holcombe Ward. It was only in the sixteenth game of the fourth set that the Englishmen got through. Looks like an omen, what?

That's just what it is. The overseas invaders are crowding persistently round Worple Road and it is clear that they will not be denied. Ah! In 1906 the first title goes abroad. To America, of course. It is taken there by a smiling Californian maiden, Miss May Sutton, now Mrs. T. C. Bundy. Two years later the men's singles championship goes off to Australia with the wily Norman Brookes. The deepening shadow of coming events.

We must give a special cheer as we hum through 1908, for A. W. Gore's third success (in his forty-first year) is the last victory for a home player up to 1934. For a quarter of a century the lion of England is in the wilderness, while the American eagle and the French chanticleer screech a defiant chorus over Wimbledon, aided and abetted by Australia's nimble kangaroo.

WHAT memories! Of Wilding and Brookes; of W. T. Tilden in his original "Teddy Bear" sweaters, so beloved of the cartoonists; of G. L. Patterson with a handkerchief knotted ferociously about his brow; of Jean Borotra and his borel, the best double act in the game; of W. M. Johnston, Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet, S. B. Wood, Ellsworth Vines and, last but not least, of Jack Crawford, who plays in a sort of gentle reverie that masks a wealth of talent and uncanny anticipation. These are the champions, to whom the impostor came as Triumph. The new champions are an international multitude, of whom F. J. Perry and G. von Cramm survive. Perry is now at his zenith, breathing fire on his hurricane way to the net. Austin remains more the artist than the match winner, appearing happier to make a losing stroke in good style than to hit a winner with a scramble.

AND how we can have whizzed our way back to 1936 with such brief reference to the women is more than I can imagine. However, the recollections they have left behind are so vivid that we can hand back the Time Machine to Mr. Wells, with many thanks, and talk of the Wimbledon women from memory. But let us hark back firstly to the centenary of 1876 who, writing very seriously on the game, said, "I do not think any lady can, or will be able to play the game, as it is very hard work for a man and dress is such a drag."

Comment would be superfluous. In short, or rather shorts, monsieur change tout cela. Which is French, just like the great Miss Suzanne Lenglen, who galvanised the play of the fair sex after the war and brought into it a spectacular appeal that it had never previously known. Suzanne, of the prim, donna temperament and exquisite touch, won the women's championship six times in seven years between 1919 and 1925. Her successor as Queen of the Courts was Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, a hard-hitting Californian girl of meditative mien. Helen won last year to equal the seven successes gained by the great English base-liner, Mrs. Lambert Chambers, between 1903 and 1914. Only one other person, William Budge, has been singles champion at Wimbledon so often, as that, although Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California has the astounding record of 18 victories in mixed and women's doubles. This great chop-stroke artist first played at Wimbledon in 1912 and since then she has not missed a single meeting. Two English women only have been crowned champions since the Lambert Chambers era. They are Mrs. L. A. Godfree, who won in 1924 and 1925, and Dorothy Round who won in 1934.

THE patient queue, that has spent the morning leaning up against the fence outside the ground, surges round the centre court to take up standing room and eat sandwiches; ticket holders (successful in a ballot for seats at enormous odds) arrive rather grandly at the last moment. And the less fortunate people pretend that they are quite satisfied with the matches scheduled for the 14 outside courts. "It's really better out here to-day," they tell one another, with their eyes fixed on the illuminated score indicator which flashes the story from the centre court.

Some of these good people—one day they numbered 30,000—are keen students of the game, fully aware of such grave things as the fact that the "last eight" at Wimbledon is a fair reflection of the international situation with regard to the Davis Cup. Others are more concerned with the qualities of the strawberries and cream. After all, Wimbledon is good either way.

'I DIED FOR SEVEN MINUTES':

REVIVED GIRL'S OWN STORY DOCTORS REVEAL TWO QUEER CASES Gold Rings That Turn "Pale" When Owner Is Ill

TWO of the strangest cases in medical history are revealed this month—that of a girl who "died" for seven minutes, but was revived, and before she recovered consciousness had 24 teeth removed; and that of golden rings which turn "pale" when their owner has a headache.

The girl who "died" was Miss Mary Devonport, aged 20, of Regent-gardens, Penistone, near Sheffield, and this was the account she gave to a London reporter of her experience in a dentist's chair under anaesthetic during which her heart stopped beating for seven minutes.

"You know," she said, "I can scarcely believe that I actually stopped breathing. I wasn't a bit nervous about having the teeth out or the anaesthetic. The next thing I knew was that I was awake and my teeth were out."

"No—I didn't feel a bit strange, not even weak. Just like you always feel when you come round—a bit sleepy, perhaps, but nothing else."

"I didn't know anything of what had been happening while I was under the chloroform. The doctor did not tell me until later. Then he said I was a very lucky girl, and I am beginning to think I am."

"Now I want to get back to work, and I want to get back to life," she added gaily. "After all, I've lost seven minutes, haven't I? And you can't afford to lose a minute."

Mrs. Devonport, her mother, was sitting downstairs while Dr. A. A. Masser, of Sheffield, struggled to revive her daughter. "I shall never forget the doctor coming down and telling me what had happened," she said. "No one knows how relieved I was when I saw Mary smiling and saying: 'Oh, the other was nice, mother. I didn't tell Mary then.'"

7 MINUTES OF DRAMA
Dr. Masser gives this account of the events in the dentist's chair in the current "British Medical Journal":

A FEW minutes after I had administered 50 minims of chloroform the patient suddenly went white and breathing stopped. No response of any sort occurred so I decided to try a heart injection of "Eucorin."

Using a syringe with a long needle I plunged the needle into the left ventricle of the heart and slowly injected the Eucorin. Massage through the diaphragm was continued and in about one minute I could see a faint flicker of pulsation in the external jugular vein of the neck.

After another ten minutes of artificial respiration the breathing recommenced and the pulse at the throat gradually returned. Her condition improved so much that I decided to continue the anaesthetic with open ether, and the dentist proceeded to remove the 24 teeth. Eucorin is one of the new emergency stimulants. It is frequently used in cases of pneumonia, following operations, and to revive from collapse due to certain types of poisoning.

THE RING MYSTERY
Here is the queer case of the gold rings which change colour, as related by Dr. J. P. Jones, of Birmingham, in the same journal:

THE patient was born in India of British parents, but although she came to England at the age of 14 has never become reconciled to English climate and English life.

Periodically she experiences nervous headaches and prostration. During these attacks her gold wedding ring, and that of her mother—both made out of golden guineas—

HUGE OLD TANKS FOR AUSTRALIA ERECTION AT STRATEGIC POINTS

THE Australian defence department is building the two largest oil tanks in the Commonwealth, on the shores of Chowder Bay, Sydney Harbour.

They will each have a capacity of 12,000 tons of oil, according to Austral News, and are purely for defence purposes. The building contract was secured by a Brisbane firm which, last year, completed three 8,000-ton capacity tanks at Darwin, a strategic point in North Australia.

To The Stratosphere Or Bust

Philadelphia, June 23.
The cellophane stratosphere balloon sent aloft June 21 by natural scientists of the Bartol Research Foundation of the Franklin Institute at 7:30 a.m., was last heard from through its automatic transmitting instrument three hours later. It had then change colour and assume the tint of platinum.

If either ring is taken off the finger and placed overnight on the mantelpiece, its golden colour is resumed. After being replaced on the hand for a few hours, however, the ring again becomes the colour of platinum.

Last night the woman herself told a reporter: "Some doctors believe that the curious change is caused by some unknown disease from the East. 'If I do not wear the ring while the attack lasts my illness is far more severe, and I am completely deprived of the power to do even the simplest things.'"

Jekyll And Hyde

THE BOY WHO MURDERED HIS MOTHER

MR. JUSTICE HANNA, summing-up in Dublin recently at the trial of Edward Ball, a twenty-year-old actor found guilty of murdering his mother, made these observations on men, women, and their frailties:—

"I have always believed that there is a parable behind Stevenson's story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

"In most of us there are two personalities. There are many people different outside from what they are in their own homes.

"There are men who are ideal fathers, but who outside their homes are cross-grained. On the contrary: there are men who are bears in their own homes, but the best of company at the golf club.

Woman Must Be Valiant To Be Single—A SPINSTER

Miss Hocter, of Ashton-under-Lyne, said at the United Textile Factory Workers' Association conference at Blackpool:

"Any one can get married, but it takes a good valiant woman to remain unmarried."

She was supporting a resolution for spinsters at the age of fifty-five. The resolution was carried.

The Coronation

Two Hundred Indian Princes To Attend

London, June 25.

TWO hundred princes of India, and up to 2,000 celebrities of other nations, including foreign kings, heads of states, and representatives of the dominions, will attend the coronation of King Edward on May 12, 1937.

A vast organisation, taking in practically every industry in the country, has swept speedily into action with the announcement of the date.

State officials, the College of Herald, ermine and robe makers, potters, stores, hotels, and a thousand other concerns are preparing for the ceremony.

It is estimated that trade as a whole will benefit by $125,000,000, and that 100,000 will be employed. Stores will benefit by an extra $5,000,000 alone as the result of the King's decision for an early date.

Foreign visitors, mostly from the King's dominions, will bring this money to Britain's shores.

It is said that the King's choice of May—his father was crowned June 22, 1911—was guided by the fact that the lines along the route from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey will not be in full leaf at that time, and more people will be able to see the procession.

The weather, too, had something to do with it, for meteorological experts were consulted as to the likelihood of "King's Weather" on the great day. They reported that there was a fifty-fifty chance on the basis of the last thirteen May 12's.

The King will be the first British monarch to choose a Wednesday, in 210 years. George II was the last previous. Every monarch since George III, except Edward VII, has been crowned on a Thursday.

The arrangements for the coronation itself, are in the hands of the Earl Marshal of England, the youthful Duke of Norfolk, assisted by the College of Herald. They have to arrange with the police, the foreign office, the home office, the office of works, with the railway and transport companies and a score of other bodies.

COURT OF CLAIMS

The court of claims, set up by the proclamation of the coronation date, will be very busy. Dating back almost to the Norman Conquest, its duty is to decide to whom the long-established privileges shall go. Officers must be filled bearing such quaint names as Taster of the King's wine, Chief Larderer, Master of the Silver Scullery, Bearer of the Great Spurs and the Second Sword.

There will be claimants for the King's right hand, the right to carry the canopy over his head, and the picturesque right to be the King's champion and defend his right to the crown against all comers in mortal combat.

Eminent lawyers will plead the causes of the claimants before the court.

PREPARING THE ABBEY

The office of works principally has to prepare the Abbey, a job which will take three months. Tiers of seats must be set up inside the abbey to increase its accommodation from 2,000 to about 10,000. The raised platform referred to in the coronation service as the "theatre" must be set up over the crossing of the Abbey and draped in deep blue to provide an approach to the Coronation Chair.

All around the sanctuary and above the Confessor's Chapel in the north-west corner, the Abbey will be draped in deep blue to provide an approach to the Coronation Chair.

Both the royal mint and the jewellers' trade will prepare medals and souvenirs, a trade said to be worth more than $5,000,000.

SOUVENIR MUGS

At least 7,000,000 souvenir mugs and beakers will be supplied by the potters.

The hospitals are expected to benefit by at least $75,000 as the result of the sale of seats along the route. At Edward VII's coronation they made $34,200, and at King George's $68,500.

Court robe makers estimate that the total cost of the robes to be worn by the peers and peeresses will be about $500,000.

The British Broadcasting Corporation has already started preparations. They plan to relay part of the Abbey service and the administration of the three oaths; to have running commentaries on the procession from as many points on the route as possible; to describe the scenes at Buckingham Palace, and possibly to broadcast a television description of some of the scenes.

FOUR STATE DRIVES

Arrangements on the part of the police, the railroad companies, and the steamship lines, the hotels and restaurants and a hundred and one other organisations will not end with the Coronation Day. Probably the King will make four state drives and there will be thousands of foreign visitors staying in London for some time after the ceremony.

Flag-makers are already placing orders for material for flags, bunting and streamers, not only at home, but throughout the Empire.—United Press.

He's Lazy—But He's Worth £50,000!

MAHMOUD IS NO GO-AHEAD AT HOME

By F. G. H. SALUSBURY

AND now what about Mahmoud, grey, record-making Derby winner, and producer of the broadest smile ever seen on the face of his owner, the Aga Khan? How is he feeling? What is he doing?

I went to Newmarket, to find out, and met Mr. Fred Hawtin, Mahmoud's stable lad. Mr. Hawtin's advice is to put everything you have on Mahmoud whenever he appears, beginning with the St. James's Palace Stakes at Ascot, and proceeding, probably, to Goodwood and the St. Leger.

After that, Mahmoud is likely to go to the stud.

"NICE AND GOOD-TEMPERED"

The stockily-built horse is now worth about £50,000. "And if he wins the St. Leger," said Mr. Hawtin, "he will be worth a great deal more."

We were in Mr. Hawtin's house, with Mrs. Hawtin, who is still home from shooting at Epsom, presiding over the tea.

"I've done Mahmoud since he was broken," said Mr. Hawtin. "He's a nice, good-tempered horse, with a lot of sense."

"I think," remarked another stable-lad present, "that horses have more sense than human beings. I respect 'em more, too."

"Well," resumed Mr. Hawtin, "he's full of sense, and he's got one human failing, which is—"

"More tea?" asked Mrs. Hawtin.

"Which is, that he doesn't want to do any more work than he has to. He's a lazy horse, you might say. He's got to be encouraged. He's better away, too, than at home."

"The heads seemed to think that he wouldn't stay at Epsom, the trouble being that he had Muntaz Mahal in his pedigree; but that was just the view of the 'heads'—"

"He's a quiet horse, a very sedate horse. He goes along with the others all right, but he's content to do just that. He likes company. He doesn't see why he should go ahead by himself, unless he's encouraged."

"THE WHIP—AND HOW HE JUMPED"

"Now, Mr. Frank Butters won't have the whip used on any of his horses in training; and Mahmoud seems as if he knows that. He won't extend himself, by himself."

"But did you see what happened when Smirke took out his whip in the Derby? He got a shock, Mahmoud did! He flew, didn't he?"

"He must have been eight lengths behind Thaurkerton when Smirke reminded him of his duty. One little pat with the whip and how he jumped!"

"He's nice and easy to ride. In the winter, of course, when he's not in strong work, he takes a bit of riding. That's why I call him Tip-top. He dances about on his toes."

"It's a funny thing," he continued, "but horses are nothing like so wild as they were when I started with Mr. William Nightingall at Epsom in 1911."

"The others nodded their heads—"It's the breeding," remarked one.

"Whatever it is, you don't get the savage ones you used to get. I remember one called Vigilance. He'd give you a nip as soon as look at you."

During the two days ended on Wednesday there was a clean bill of health in the Colony.

MR. FRED HAWTIN with Mahmoud after the Derby.

and on the course he was a proper devil. They had to warn him off.

"Now they're much better behaved. It's a funny change in 25 years."

The tea-party went round again. We talked of Newmarket in the winter. "Nothing to do," said Mrs. Hawtin. "Fred makes those woolen mats to pass the time away. And, at any time, there's nothing but racing."

"When I first came here," she smiled, "I couldn't get used to seeing so many small men with their big wives. But that was before I was married."

"TO BRIGTEN UP THE TOWN"

The tea party broke up. Mr. Hawtin still a "lad," though in his forties, after reminding me to put my shirt on Mahmoud, said: "There's one thing they want to brighten up the town, and keep the young men here."

"What's that?" I asked. "Another stable?"

"No," replied the £25,000 week guardian of the £50,000 Mahmoud; "no—a factory."

LOOKING OVER INDIA'S CRICKET HISTORY

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS

Concluding Article By R. Abbit

The last encounter between British and Indian cricket before that which is taking place in the present season in England was in the series of games when Mr. D. R. Jardine took his team out there in the autumn of 1933.

Looking back from the present it is a somewhat sad occasion as it was the last time on which the finest captain England has produced for many a year was to lead one of her sides. Since then, nicknamed by the misrepresentations of those who raved venomously about a form of attack which was by no means what they said it was, and by the time-serve, should have known better. Jardine has retired in disgust from the game and the world has once more been made safe for star batsmen. In the period of which I write however, Jardine was still in the game and led a very useful side to India.

It had been recognized when Gilligan went out nearly seven years before that the Indians were fast men worthy of our willow, but the doings of the side in England in 1932 had made it even clearer that a great improvement had taken place and the M.C.C. decided that they must send out a really strong side. The Amateurs were D. R. Jardine, C. F. Walters, B. H. Valentine, J. H. Human, W. H. V. Levent and C. S. Marriott. The professionals included C. J. Barnett, L. F. Townsend, (Derbyshire) James Law, ridge, H. Bakewell, Mitchell, Verity, Gregory, Nichols, Clark and Elliot. One could raise an eleven from the company that could take on the English side that did duty at Lord's over last week end!

As always happens in an Indian tour there was a good deal of illness and strain owing to the heat. Indeed I fancy that it is quite possible that there may be some difficulty in obtaining the professionals in the future as of the above named Nichols, Clark, Langridge and Townsend were all badly upset and were off their game for the first part of the 1934 season, while J. H. Human was badly bowled over by malaria. This and the frequently of mowing wickets should have proved a great help to India but it seems that they did not do so well as was expected and had lost some of the fighting spirit that had previously been shown. Mr. Hubert Preston in the 1935 Wisden puts this down to the fact that they were somewhat overworked by the strength of the side brought against them. This may be true, but it helps thinking that possibly the tide was already on the turn and Indian cricket was due for a temporary decline.

It is undoubtedly the fact that there were fewer players available to form sides in 1934 than in 1933, and after time the same players cropped up. Wazir Ali seemed to pervade the whole country and he with C. K. Nayudu, Amar Nath, Amar Singh, Nazir Ali and Mahoma Nissar kept forming part of the opposition. (Incidentally I see that C. K. Nayudu, Mitchell did not like Amar Singh's bowling and he did not do very much with the bat during the tour, having an average of just under thirty.)

The Indian side was led by Major C. K. Nayudu and it was said that while the career of captaincy detracted in some measure from the success of his own personal game, he did not show great ability and failed to get his men together until the third test match. I am beginning to wonder if some of the internal dissensions which have rather damaged Indian Cricket recently had already run their head.

Later on there was an awful lot of bother when the Australian side was there—just recently. It seemed to have arisen in Delhi where the Indian Board of Control is based, and it was suggested that Nayudu had refused to play under the captaincy of Wazir Ali—a statement which proved to be quite untrue as one Test Match against Australia in which he could not play clashed with a date when he had to take his own team to Calcutta in an inter-provincial Tournament game. This, and the difficulties which have arisen in England this season are most unfortunate for Indian Cricket but it must not be supposed that such things did not happen in the earlier days of English Cricket. No doubt all will be well later and in the meantime one can only wish those in authority a temperate judgment and good fortune.

During the course of the whole tour no less than 54 matches were played of which 17 were won, 16 were drawn and 1 against Vizianagram was lost. The programme was probably too ambitious, 18 matches (including the three Test Matches) were ranked as first-class. Of these ten were won, seven drawn, and one lost. Most of these victories were fairly comfortable though against an XI of India and Ceylon at Colombo England only got home by eight runs. Five of the old brigade from India were playing in this match. I do not propose to deal with the majority of these matches in any detail, but the Tests were interesting. In the first, England won by nine wickets. India however did not do so badly. They made 210 and 258 while England had a score of 438 in their first innings. Valentine cracked up 136 for England while Amar Nath made 38 and 118 for India. In England's huge innings Nissar took five for ninety in thirty-four overs, an excellent performance. The second Test ended in a draw. India again putting up solid scores of 247 and 237, while England made 403. In this Amar Singh sent down 55 overs for 100 runs and 4 wickets—a pretty useful performance.

India lost the third game. As in the second they lost the two and England again putting up solid scores of 247 and 237, while England made 403. In this Amar Singh sent down 55 overs for 100 runs and 4 wickets—a pretty useful performance.

BOWLS TOURNEY

U. M. Omar Beaten
By J. E. Henson

COATES' EASY WIN

J. E. Henson, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club and a comparatively new member to lawn bowls championships, caused a minor sensation yesterday when he defeated U. M. Omar, an ex-champion in the open singles by 21 shots to 14 on the Kowloon Dock green. Omar was a bit below form but nevertheless the merit of Henson's victory could not be denied in view of the experience of his opponent. Henson found his form right from the start and led throughout the game which ended on the 19th hole.

On the Club de Recreio green, A. E. Coates defeated T. Ferguson rather easily, the score being 21 shots to 5 in his favour. The winner played at the top of his form and only allowed his opponent to score on four heads. The game ended on the 15th hole. Coates scored a four on the 13th.

J. D. Thomson defeated J. J. Basso by 21 shots to 15 on the Kowloon C. C. green. The loser led in the first four heads but after that Thomson scored a four to take the lead which he maintained throughout. The game ended on the 21st hole.

In the Open Pairs Championship, L. Glendinning and J. Shepherd defeated C. J. Tachi and R. Bana by 25 shots to 17 at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club. Glendinning was the outstanding player of the quarter, being largely responsible for the victory.

An exciting game of bowls was witnessed at the Hongkong Electric green when C. Champelovier of the Civil Service C.C. beat D. M. Khan of the Indian C.C. by 21 shots to 20 in the second round of the Singles Championship. At one stage Khan was leading by 20-17 but Champelovier staged a last minute effort by scoring two singles and a two to win. Khan scored two fours in his total of twenty.

RUMJAHN THROUGH
D. Rumjahn of the Craigengower C.C. beat J. Watson at the Indian R.C. by 22 shots to 15 after 24 heads. At one stage Rumjahn was leading by 16 shots to seven but Watson staged a good recovery and was down by two shots on the 21st head. The score being 17 shots to 15 in favour of Rumjahn. Rumjahn however asserted himself and scored a single and two twos to finish the game.

Apert from his official residences, King Edward VIII has a ranch in Alberta, Canada, and a small country house at Sunningdale, in Berkshire. Fort Helvedere the latter is called—"helvedere" meaning a raised turret from which to view scenery; it is a battlemented building on Shrubbs Hill, near Virginia Water and Windsor Great Park, and dates from 1750. It was adapted as a country residence for the King when he was Prince of Wales. Not far away is the celebrated Sunningdale Golf Course.

£10,000 RACE FOR EMPIRE AIR PILOTS

LONDON TO CAPE IN SEPTEMBER.

Ten thousand pounds is to be given in prizes by Mr. I. W. Schlesinger, the South African industrialist, for a proposed air race from England to South Africa, to start on September 15, thus coinciding with the opening of the British Empire Exhibition at Johannesburg.

Sir Alan Cobham, who is acting as consultant, stated that the South African Government welcomed the idea and promised assistance, while the British Air Ministry had completely approved. "The entire organisation of the race will be undertaken by the Royal Aero Club of Great Britain, and the race will be confined to pilots and aircraft of the British Empire."

"Mr. Schlesinger's motive is the promotion of commercial aircraft and the furthering of air interest in the people of the British Empire. But, most of all, it is hoped that the event will focus attention on the Empire Exhibition, which is to celebrate the jubilee of Johannesburg."

Sir Alan added: "The race will show that the day is not far distant when one can spend a week-end in Johannesburg. It may be that the flight will be accomplished in two days."

PLUCK, BUT NO LUCK!

BRITONS BEATEN IN DARING PROJECTS

Two stories furnished recently reveal some of the trials of British pioneers in out-of-the-way corners of the globe.

MR. GEORGE CONLEY, a Surrey butcher-turned-explorer-adventurer, means to canoe up the Zambezi River, Africa, some time in July.

Crocodiles and floods have beaten him so far. And, away out in Singapore, a Dublin man, Mr. W. F. Daly, has cancelled what he called "the most hazardous sea voyage in history."

He planned to sail round the world in a 25-ft. canoe, finishing at Dublin some time next year.

Mr. Conley, who was formerly in charge of cadets in the training ship Joseph Conrad, had hoped to canoe up the Zambezi from Livingstone to Kalaba, in darkest Africa—a trip never made before.

"Crocodiles are the main danger," he stated.

"Two members of the Zambezi Canoe Club lost their lives recently, I was told. So after a short trial I decided to postpone my attempt until July."

Mr. Daly gave up his project because of lack of public support. He envisaged the largest hall in Singapore to lecture upon his proposed trip—and only reporters turned up!

From Devil's Island for a New Trial

Paris, June 21.

After serving nearly eight years of a 15 years' sentence in the French penal colony of Devil's Island, Onesime Lartigue is to be brought back to France for a new trial of his alleged crime.

Lartigue, a native of Bellocq, near Pau, was arrested in connection with the murder of a married couple named Domercq. The evidence was contradictory, and it was only after seven hearings that he was sentenced. That was in November, 1928.

Since then his aged mother and his wife have died after having spent every penny they had in trying to secure his freedom.—Central News.

Keeping Memory of Mdivanis Green

THE name of the "marrying Mdivanis" is to be handed down to posterity.

Princess Nina Mdivani, whose brothers, Prince Serge and Prince Alexis Mdivani, were killed in accidents, revealed in London, that she and her only surviving brother, Prince David, have decided to present

A polo trophy to be played for in England in commemoration of Prince Serge, who was killed during a match in the United States three months ago.

A motor-racing cup to be raced for in this country in memory of Prince Alexis, killed in a car accident in Spain last autumn.

A scholarship to the new Indian state school founded by the young Maharajah of Jaipur, who is now in London and against whom Prince Alexis's polo team, Les Diables, played last year.

THEIR LIVING WISHES

"Although I am not a Spiritualist I am convinced that the personalities of my brothers and of my fiancée's father, the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, survive, so that communication between the two worlds is possible," the princess said.

"I want, therefore, to carry out my brothers' living wishes."

"Alex wanted to give Jaipur's school a scholarship, but he was killed before his wish could be fulfilled. The Maharajah overwhelmed Les Diables with kindness and Alex could think of no better way of showing his appreciation."

"Polo was the thing Serge cared most in the world for and he so enjoyed his season over here where Mr. Denis Conan-Doyle, my fiancé, and I are going to live after our marriage in September, that I think a memorial in the shape of a polo trophy is extremely suitable."

"Denis and Alex were friends and shared my passion for motor-racing. That accounts for the decision to give a motor-racing cup."

GERMAN FLEET FLIES KAISER'S WAR FLAG

Berlin, June 1.

IMPERIAL Germany's war flag will fly to-morrow, by command of Chancellor Hitler, on all navy vessels in home waters to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the Battle of Jutland.

Germany claims Jutland as a victory over the British Fleet. The Imperial flag will also be hoisted on the Kiel Navy Memorial to be inaugurated by Hitler to-morrow.

"Both British and Jews have lost prestige, and the Jews now set their hope more on the Red Army of Russia than on the British Navy."

"I have again and again referred to the dwindling power of Britain. Now the British themselves are rubbing their sleepy eyes."—Reuter.

WILLIAM FOX FILES HIS PETITION

New York, June 21.

ONCE Tsar of the Films and the most powerful man in the industry, Mr. William Fox has filed his petition at Camden, New Jersey, with liabilities estimated at £1,800,000 and assets at £100,000.

Mr. Fox, who was born in Hungary 57 years ago and went to U.S.A. as a child, entered the picture business in 1904 as a theatre manager.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL

He built up the Fox Film Corporation, and in 1929 obtained controlling interest in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Co., and a 45 per cent. interest in Gaumont-British.

A year later when the U.S. Stock Market collapsed, he became involved in a long-drawn-out struggle for the control of Fox, Films and Fox Theatres.

At one time Mr. Fox's personal fortune was estimated at £7,000,000. He has given more than £1,000,000 to charity, and has described himself as the most insured man in the world—he has life policies for £1,250,000.

Thus, in a few years Mr. Fox has not only lost his £7,000,000 fortune, but nearly £1,500,000 besides.

Smuggling In North China

Peiping, June 21.

THE East Hoped Anti-Communist Autonomous Government, itself largely responsible for the smuggling difficulties now besetting the Central Government in North China, is having its own troubles with smuggling, according to private information from a member of the "Import Inspection Office."

This office, the "Customs Service" of the East Hoped regime, assesses and collects duty on goods brought into the area for smuggling to other parts of China. The duty averages one-quarter of the legal Chinese rate and has been characterized by Chinese circles as simply graft on smuggling.

The smugglers, who until recently have been glad to pay this modest "squeeze," are apparently asking themselves why they should pay anything to anyone. The net result, according to this information, is that the East Hoped regime is finding itself able to collect its "duty" on only about half the goods brought in through its territory. The proportion of "illegally smuggled goods" as against "legally smuggled goods" is stated to be increasing.—United Press.

CHINESE Y.W.C.A. CORDIAL WELCOME TO LADY CALDECOTT

Lady Caldecott paid an informal visit to the Young Women's Christian Association yesterday afternoon to meet members of the Board and Committee and a few friends of the Association.

On arrival Lady Caldecott was received by members of the nursing division of the St. John's Ambulance at the entrance and by Mrs. Paul S. F. Tso the President, Miss Sin Tai-hing the General Secretary, and three other members of the Board, Mrs. Ma Ying-pui, Mrs. Ma Wing-chun and Dr. Katie Woo.

Mrs. Tso in welcoming their guest said: "We have the great honour to have Lady Caldecott with us this afternoon. As we all know Lady Caldecott has not been here very long, and has only recently recovered from illness, and yet she can fix such an early date to pay us a visit. For that we are very grateful. From this fact alone we can see that Lady Caldecott has great interest in the work of our Association and we can therefore, while she is here with us, look forward to her assistance, her guidance and her inspiration. For while our Association is the only Chinese Women Organisation in the Colony and while our Association's aim is to help all Chinese women here, not only physically, intellectually, socially but also spiritually, we therefore need help from all quarters and from all persons. And who can give us a greater help than Lady Caldecott?"

So on behalf of the members of the Board of the Association and myself I extend to Lady Caldecott our hearty welcome and I have also the pleasure of presenting you a souvenir fan as a souvenir of your visit.

In answer to Mrs. Tso's welcome address Lady Caldecott thanked the Y.W.C.A. for giving this welcome party and for the kind words expressed by Mrs. Tso. She said, she had always taken a great interest in the Y.W.C.A. in Singapore and Kuala Lumpur and wanted to take the same interest in the Hongkong Y.W.C.A. She hoped to get to know the work and the members and to come often.

FENGTAI INCIDENT SETTLED

CHINA BOWS TO JAPAN DEMANDS APOLOGY AND DAMAGES

Peiping, July 3.

The Fengtai incident, which arose over the detention of a Japanese army officer and manhandling of a trader by Chinese troops, has been finally settled at a Sino-Japanese conference.

Besides replacing the Chinese troops at Fengtai, the Chinese authorities have agreed, among other things, to formally apologize for the offences against Japanese subjects, to deprive the battalion commander responsible of his rank, and to pay damages to the Japanese trader allegedly manhandled and detained.—Reuter.

Moving Barracks

Peiping, July 3.

An official statement issued late this morning stated that the Fengtai incident had been settled. The Chinese authorities accepting the Japanese demands, with the exception of that concerning the evacuation of troops. On this point a compromise was reached, the Chinese agreeing to move their barracks further from the Japanese military quarter.—United Press.

No Case To Meet

Peiping, July 3.

The magistrate hearing the case respecting the death from a fractured skull of Kikaku Sasaki, a Japanese officer of the Manchukuo Department of Defence, to-day found there was insufficient evidence against either of two British soldiers, H. Cooke and R. Hunt, suspected of having been implicated in the fight which caused his death.

However, he found there was a prima facie case against Cooke in the case of the assault on another Japanese, Onishi, and decided to deal with the charge summarily.—Reuter.

BASE SHIP MISSING

Moscow, July 3.

Twelve members of the Soviet hydrological expedition scientifically surveying the Arctic Circle, who left their base ship in an open boat recently, were caught in a terrific gale and swept out to sea, according to reports just received.

Only one man of the party survived the experience, one drowning and ten dying of cold and hunger.

A second vessel, belonging to the expedition, which reported the tragedy and presumably picked up the one survivor, is now itself missing.—Reuter.

NO HOPE OF FURTHER SANCTIONS

Small Nations Lose Fight at Geneva

"LEAGUE HAS ABANDONED VICTIM TO HIS FATE"

Geneva, July 2.

Having previously taken the bit between their teeth and vehemently protested against the abolition of anti-Italian sanctions, the small nations to-day accepted the inevitable and turned their attention to an immediate and thorough overhaul of the League Covenant, though they are in no way unanimous with regard to the methods to be employed.

Dr. P. R. Munch, Danish Foreign Minister, preferred improvement in the operation of the League to a revision of the Covenant.

Sir C. J. Parr, the New Zealand High Commissioner, advocated inviting all non-member states to attend the Assembly session in September.

Jhr. A. C. D. de Graeff, Holland's Foreign Minister, favoured modification of the Covenant because recent events had killed the hope of more satisfactory results if another case of aggression by a League member arose.

The Assembly was most impressed by Mr. Eamon de Valera's thorough-going proposal that the Great Powers get together and make sacrifices, because by a fraction of the sacrifices war would entail, the present menace could be averted.

The issue could be cleared up temporarily by the French resolution, now drafting, which reaffirms Article X, relating to the preservation of territorial integrity, and by the appointment of a commission to examine the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and to report to the Assembly in September.

In the meantime, an emergency meeting of the Council is contemplated to deal with the Danzig crisis, over which Mr. Sean Lester, the Irish High Commissioner for Danzig, has been specially summoned to Geneva.

Mr. Lester is most indignant at his treatment by the Germans and it is possible that Poland may be invited to act as intermediary between him and the German Government.

French Standpoint

The French standpoint with regard to the reform of the League Covenant will be indicated by M. Yves Delbos, the new Foreign Minister, when he speaks to the Assembly to-morrow.

It is understood he favours reinforcing Articles XI and XVI by a more binding interpretation, and also suppression of the rule of unanimity on the ground that it permits a potential aggressor to hold up action by the Council, and the establishment of a system of regional agreements binding the countries immediately involved in military sanctions, while other countries less interested would apply economic sanctions only.—Reuter.

Sad Confession

Geneva, July 2.

"The sad and bitter confession must be made that the League has abandoned the victim to his fate," said Mr. Eamon de Valera, of the Irish Free State, speaking in the Assembly debate on sanctions today. "It is the fulfilment of the worst predictions of all who decried the League and said it could not succeed."

"Apparently no-one is ready to risk a war which might be transferred to Europe."

"Europe is obviously the danger point. Let us therefore set about the urgent task of preserving the peace of Europe and leave aside temporarily such questions as the alteration of the Covenant."

Mr. de Valera urged the use of the machinery provided in the Covenant to remove the obvious injustices existing and to make territorial and other adjustments which the present conditions demanded. In other words, he (Continued on Page 5.)

LEAGUE'S SECOND FAILURE

NATURAL SEQUENCE TO 1931 INCIDENT CHINA LOOKS TO FUTURE

Geneva, July 2.

Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese representative at the League Assembly session, speaking in the sanctions debate today, said the unhappy events of recent months were the natural sequence of the League's failure in the case of armed aggression started in September, 1931, by one member-state of the League against another.

China felt all the more keenly the loss of prestige and authority by the League, he went on, China sincerely believed in the principles on which the League was founded, and always loyally and faithfully supported it. If China now accepted the new collective decision of the Assembly, despite her profound sympathy for the other party to the conflict, she would do so in the same spirit as she had applied sanctions, provided only that such acceptance was in no way prejudicial to the fundamental principles of the Covenant.

The Chinese delegation held the opinion that the failure of the League with regard to sanctions was not due to the insufficiency of the measures provided by the Covenant, but rather to the policy and method of application adopted.

Sanctions, he declared, instead of being applied in their entirety, were applied partially and haltingly, without determination, and promptly which would have produced a far greater effect.

COLLECTIVE SYSTEM

POLAND'S PRESIDENT HONOURED

With trouble brewing in Danzig, many European observers are watching Poland and Germany with some apprehension. M. Here he is reviewing his troops on the occasion of the celebration of his tenth year as head of the state.

SLAUGHTERING MILLION HEAD OF U.S. CATTLE

DROUGHT CAUSES AWFUL LOSSES IN MID-WEST

Duluth, Minn., July 2.

The United States Government's purchase of up to 1,000,000 head of cattle left by the drought without nourishment in the north-western prairie country, was to-day authorised by the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Henry C. Wallace. The cattle will be slaughtered and packed as food for the unemployed.

Prices have sky-rocketed in the Chicago wheat pit on reports of the failure of the spring wheat crop in North and South Dakota, Iowa and Montana.

Government investigators estimate this failure will mean a £20,000,000 loss to the areas affected and will leave 100,000 farm families without means of sustenance.

Federal officials are hastily drafting plans to provide work relief jobs for 50,000 men. The remainder of the stricken wheat belt dwellers will be cared for by the re-settlement association.

Rain is now falling in the south-eastern states, where drought damage is estimated at £30,000,000.—Reuter.

FACING HUGE LOSSES

Washington, July 2. The Weather Bureau has reported that the drought areas in the United States need rain at present worse than they did in 1930 or 1934. The Bureau has further pointed out that on previous occasions the drought situation has become worse during the months of July and August.

The Secretary of Agriculture has started on a three weeks' tour of the stricken areas, following the appointment of an Agricultural Committee to present a specific programme to President Roosevelt before the week-end.

In South Dakota during the months of May and June there was 32 per cent. of the normal rainfall as compared with 59 per cent. during the corresponding months in the drought period of 1934.

There have been rains to-night in the Southern portion of the corn belt, together with lowering temperatures.—United Press.

DRIVER FAILED TO STOP VICTIM TERRIBLY INJURED CONTRADICTION OF DEFENCE

An accident at Hennessy Road, opposite Tannochy Road, on the night of June 14 in which private car No. 2992, driven by Hsu Yuk-sang, knocked down a man, who received serious injuries, had a sequel at the Central Magistracy this morning when the driver was summoned for having failed to stop after the collision.

Defendant stated he did not stop because a hostile crowd gathered and shouted "Strike."

Traveller Sergeant M. Clarke said this was not correct. The injured man was walking from south to north, and when he reached the centre of the road he saw two cars approaching, one from the east and the other from the west. The car approaching from the east passed him, but the other car knocked him down. He had this (Continued on Page 5.)

CARDINALS MAINTAIN CUBS' FAST PACE

New York, July 2.

St. Louis Cardinals won against Pittsburgh to-day, four to two, hitting eleven times to seven, and playing an air-tight game in the field. But Chicago, leading the Cardinals by a shade for League honours, also won against Cincinnati, eight to six. Cubs Reds hit fifteen times each, but the former profited by three errors on the part of their opponents.

New York beat Boston seven to six, although the Giants had one less hit. The Braves hit thirteen and committed four errors. Philadelphia shut out Brooklyn, Walter allowing only two hits, and his mates counted five times on nine blows. Brooklyn had four errors. Cleveland scored a fourteen to six. (Continued on Page 5.)

BALDWIN WON'T RESIGN

BENEFITS FROM HOLIDAY FUTURE OF SANCTIONS

(Special To "Telegraph")

London, July 2.

Flat denial of reports that his health was "breaking up" and that his resignation was imminent, was made by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, when speaking at a banquet in London to-night celebrating the city's Conservative Association Centenary.

"When I feel incapable of sustaining the burden I shall pass it on, but it is for me to decide," he declared. "No-one will dictate to me."

He had obviously benefited by his brief holiday.

It is emphasised that in a month's time Mr. Baldwin will probably be able to leave London for an extended holiday, which should completely restore his usual good health.—Reuter Special.

DENIES RESIGNATION

London, July 2.

At a speech at a banquet in London to-night, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, denied that his resignation was imminent. He denied that any doctors had visited him at Chequers.

Explaining the reasons for the raising of sanctions against Italy, Mr. Baldwin said that the moment had come when further pressure might lead to war, and once war was lost in Europe no-one could know how far it would spread.

It Britain is to impose sanctions again she would do so with open eyes, and the realisation that her action would probably bring war.

"We go to Geneva in the autumn to consider the future of the League and to make another effort to secure peace by collective security. It is our strongest desire to bring together France and Germany, without whose collaboration the peace of Europe is impossible," he asserted.—Reuter.

PREMIER CHEERED

London, July 2.

Ten minutes cheering greeted the arrival of Mr. Stanley Baldwin in the House of Commons today after a few days' absence during his recuperation from the strain of recent events. The cheers gained in heartiness in consequence of the rumours in a portion of the press regarding the Prime Minister's health and his possible retirement.

Replying to a question from the Labour member, Mr. Johnson regarding Lord Londonderry's recent speech in which he contradicted the Premier's assertion that he had been misled about the rate of acceleration of German rearmament a year or more ago, Mr. Baldwin said he intended no reflection upon any department or individual.

He added it was always very difficult to obtain accurate information about a country which published no defence estimates.

The Government was satisfied that its present information of Germany's air strength, which was derived from a variety of sources, represented the actual state of affairs, as far as could be accurately obtained.—Reuter Special.

BRITISH OFFICER WOUNDED

VICTIM OF ARAB SNIPERS

CLASH NEAR ALGIERS

Jerusalem, July 2.

Ambushes of police and military patrols by Arab marksmen are still the order of the day in Palestine. A British officer and private were slightly wounded when their patrol was fired on by snipers on the outskirts of Jerusalem to-day.

A new step has been taken by the Arabs to embarrass the Government. They have started a hunger strike in the concentration.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

GRAVE RIOTING

Algiers, July 2.

Rioting involving Arabs, Jews and Europeans is occurring almost daily, and to-day 1,000 Arabs, carrying a red flag, attempted to take a small town near Algiers.

Police and soldiers were rushed to the scene and after a few hours dispersed the demonstrators, who bombarded the police and troops with paving stones brought by lorry.

Let your children Sunbathe Slowly

then summer heat will not affect them

CHILDREN are the real sunbathers of the year. Long before we get into sun clothes ourselves the younger generation have exposed legs, arms, heads and necks to the sun and air.

Sunbathing cannot begin too early. The sooner you allow your child to sunbathe, the sooner he or she will acquire that healthy tan on his legs, arms and neck, and be quite ready for hot sunshine.

Sunbathing done gradually is beneficial to every one. Sunbathing done suddenly in the heat of July is injurious to most.

They could not stand the Sun

FROM California comes the news of some interesting experiments being carried out by Dr. Eder at an institution for infants.

Working to cure anaemia in children, he suddenly discovered that their reaction to sunshine and the amount they could stand was a better test of the amount of iron in the body than any of the present accepted blood tests.

He found, for instance, that pale and pasty-looking children could have a normal iron metabolism, namely, the right amount of red corpuscles in the blood, but that these children still looked delicate and were quite unable to stand sunshine without blistering.

This also does away with Freckles

IGNORING the blood test, he continued to add iron to their diet, and within two months all of them could stand warm sunshine, had better colour, and were tanning beautifully without any injury to the skin whatsoever.

Sufficient iron in children's bodies has not only been found to prevent sun-burning, but it has also caused freckling in both children and adults to disappear. This is another instance of the vital link between iron and the skin.

Depends on the Diet

THERE is always a risk in too early sunbathing for tiny babies, for the simple reason that milk is a poor source of iron. In fact, if an infant is kept too long on milk alone it will become anaemic.

Once a child is on a proper diet containing such foods as spinach, yolk of egg, liver, lightly cooked beef, apples, lentils, dried peas, potatoes, wheat—then you can safely expose it to the sun. The first five of the foods mentioned above have the greatest amount of iron, and if these are in the regular diet then you will not need iron prescriptions.

Look at its Face

YOU should be able to tell from the child's face whether it is ready for strong sunshine or not. Don't plunge a pale child suddenly into strong sunlight. Build it up first with a good diet.

The same applies to the fair or the red-haired child who freckles. Start them out of doors gradually, keeping them at exercise in the weak sunshine and at the same time add extra iron to their diet. Then, as they begin to get a good colour in their cheeks, you may begin to expose their bodies to more and stronger sunshine and they will not suffer any harm.

THE soup is delicious. Boil a pound of floury potatoes until about three-quarters done, then add three pennyworth of watercress, wash and chop up. Season with a little cream of the milk, with an egg-yolk if you like, and garnish with a few watercress leaves.

Business Girl's CORNER

THE business girl's most usual complaint is that her work is so often monotonous. Girls who are working modern office machines week in and week out, although efficient and intelligent, have absolutely no work which requires any brain effort.

They do not ask for higher salaries, but merely for their work to be more enjoyable. This seems very reasonable.

Monotony

BUT the answer business men make is quite as reasonable. "We employ girls in these jobs first because they are cheaper, and second because only 15 per cent. have any intention of carving out a permanent career in our businesses. It is not therefore worth our while to train them for the more attractive and interesting positions."

The question rests jointly on employer and employee. If you find your work absolutely the same from day to day and are, therefore, getting restless and inefficient, pluck up your courage and ask whether you may be tried out in another department and gradually work right round the office.

This is a most reasonable request and is definitely to the advantage of your employer: a girl who can turn her hand to any job is a great business asset.

It may cheer you to know that the higher the intelligence the less efficient an individual becomes in a monotonous task. This was discovered in research work done by experts on factory labour in Great Britain.

The very intelligent start a monotonous job with a rush and gradually tail off, getting worse and worse at it each day. The less intelligent start slowly, and then work up to a good maximum speed which is kept going indefinitely.

Touch Typing

IT is possible to become an efficient typist in twenty-four hours. By efficient is understood a speed of sixty words a minute, a knowledge of legal, tabulating and display work, and an understanding of the different parts of your machine.

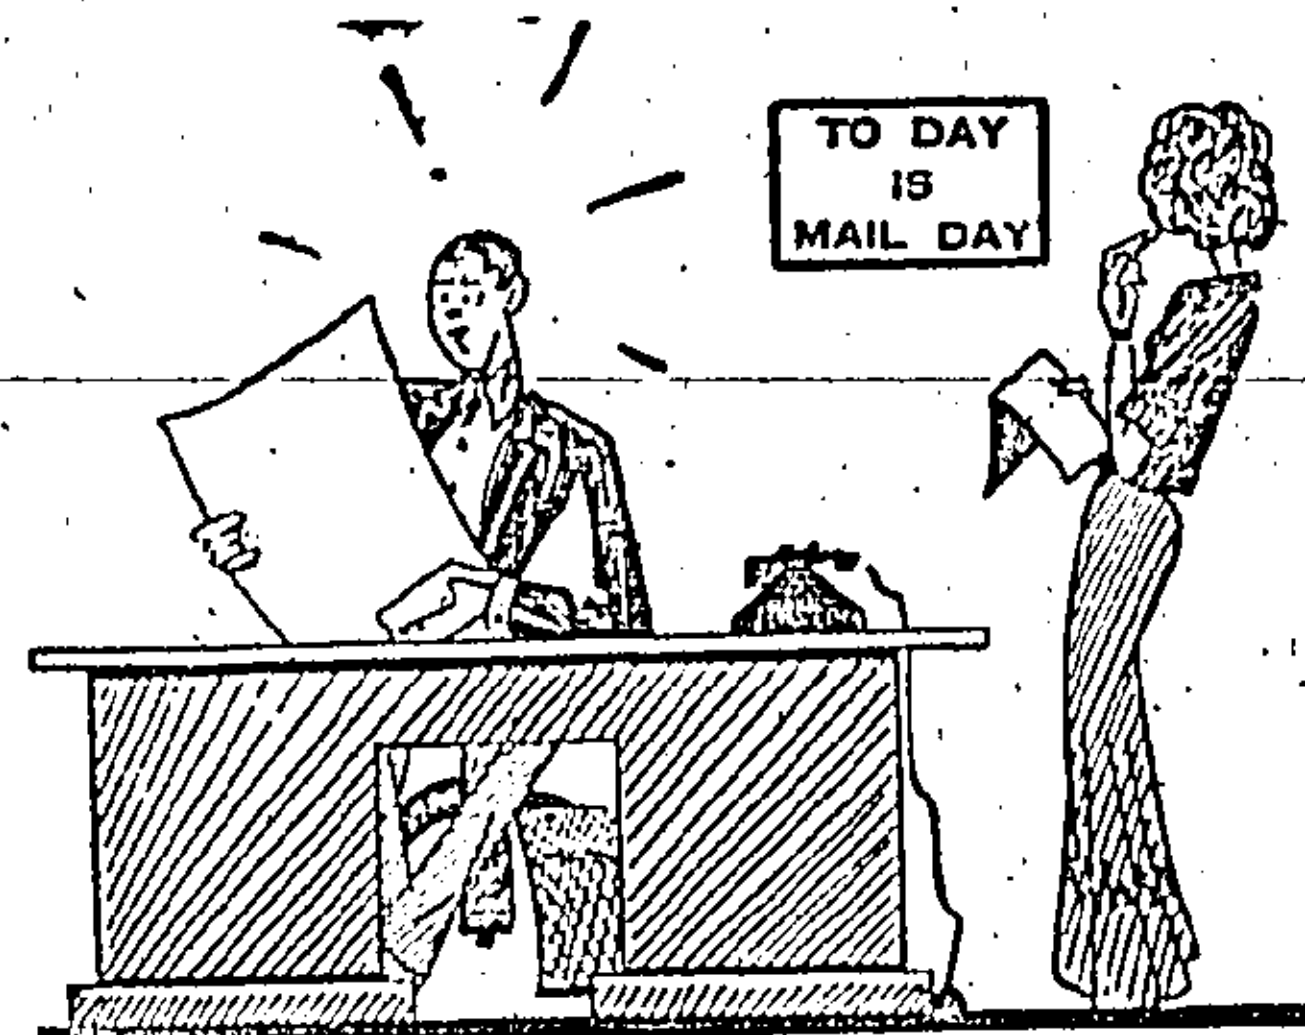

The twenty-four hours are divided up into ten lessons—what would be roughly one term at a secretarial college—and the claim is made by a woman who has had sound experience in this direction. It can only be done by learning touch-typing immediately and by getting into a good rhythm of work—this is usually done by typing to, and in time with, a gramophone record.

A point that has arisen with shorthand typists is the important one of eye strain.

It is realised by opticians that shorthand typing is a great strain on the sight, and for that reason those so employed should be very kind to their eyes out of office hours.

A nightly bath for the eyes, a curtainment of close reading during the week, and as much time out of doors as possible, are very important points for those wishing to avoid spectacles at an early age.

In the office, correct shaded lighting coming from over the left shoulder and shining on your work and not on your face should be insisted on by every shorthand typist.

The morning letter the night before? And then day after day it's hard on you, but why pass your grouches on to others—for instance the little lady in the office?

Under such circumstances Pinkettes are perfection. Taken just before going to bed, they enable you to rise feeling fit and fresh in the morning. There is nothing better to aid digestion, stimulate the liver, dispel constipation, banish biliousness and sick headache, in short to quickly remove the causes of your ill-temper and gloom!

WORLD ATTACK ON RHEUMATISM PLANNED

Princess Tells Of Romance In Island Hotel

—“I Loathed Court Life”

Rhodes Island (off Asia Minor), June 21.

SITTING in their hotel on Rhodes Island, Princess Izzade, sister of King Ghazi of Iraq, and her waiter-husband, Anastasios Charalambous, told to-day the romantic love story which led to their marriage in Athens a few days ago.

Strange Craft To Ply Pacific

Honolulu, July 1.

Capt. Eric de Bisschop and Joseph Tatibouet, French scientists, plan to put out early this month in one of the strangest looking craft ever to brave the Pacific to continue their quest for meteorological data for the French Geographic Society.

Only a few more planks and a coat of paint and the Kaimilon, a double outrigger canoe with a Chinese junk type sail, will be ready for the adventure.

The Kaimilon has two deep hulls, each 30 feet long with a draft of approximately four feet. Each has a main cabin big enough for head room and extending nearly the length of the hull. The starboard cabin will be used as a chartroom and studio. The other will be used as a galley and sleeping quarters.

The two hulls are joined by four heavy beams upon which two masts are mounted, the mainmast nearly 30 feet high. Capt. de Bisschop chose junk sails, believing they are the fastest type that could be found. The hulls will be only about three feet apart.

The two explorers started building their craft after their Chinese junk was wrecked off the leeward settlement on the island of Molokai last year.

The scientists hope to touch Cliperton Island, an uninhabited French possession west of the Galapagos Islands. From there they will go to the Marquesas, to Tahiti and neighbouring islands, then over to Peru, through the Panama Canal and across the Atlantic to the Mediterranean and home to Cannes.

—United Press.

They flew here on Friday to escape the anger of King Ghazi.

Charalambous, who was formerly employed at the hotel, the largest on the island, said—

“Last year two Iraqi princesses (Princess Izzade and her sister, Princess Rajihan) came to Rhodes.

“Princess Izzade often smiled at me when I happened to meet her walking in the hotel gardens, and she sometimes waited on her balcony when I came off duty.

“I often spoke to her about the difference in our positions and the impossibility of our ever being more than friends. But she was prepared to give up everything—religion and family—as she now has done.

“As if in a dream I followed her wherever I could. Once I went to Baghdad in disguise but the princess was kept under the strictest watch and I only managed to speak to her once or twice on the telephone.

“Love has won in spite of all. The wedding has taken place and we are happy.”

LONGED TO ESCAPE

At this point the princess came into the room to confirm her husband's words with a brilliant smile.

“All my life,” she said, “I have wanted to escape from the colourless life of our court.

“My happiest days have been spent on this fascinating island, and my joy is now unbounded.

“I have renounced my people and my religion because I think real love is worth any sacrifice.

“People may talk about it. Let them talk. I will not return to Iraq, and I don't want to hear the burden of a royal title.”

Added her husband: “I worked honestly to support my mother and my family, and I am not ashamed of it.”

Postcard Of Divorce Soviet Barred

Moscow, July 1.

There are no more “postcard” divorces in Russia. Now it is necessary for a husband or wife to be served personally with a notice before a divorce will be granted.

The notice is sent by a miliaman (police officer) instead of by mail, and if the person to be served cannot be found a waiting period of six months is required for the divorce.

Formerly it was only necessary to walk into the divorce bureau, pay three roubles and receive a divorce. Still no grounds are required, but the number of children will be entered upon the husband's passport and the organization for which he works is held responsible for paying part of his income for the children's support.

There is no alimony paid to wives, but if either husband or wife is ill, in event of divorce the other is held responsible for his or her support for six months.

RESEARCH IN 1,000 CITIES COMMON COLDS TO BE INVESTIGATED NEXT

LONDON will shortly have a new type of medical clinic which will be the permanent international headquarters for a series of 1,000 or more similar clinics in all the large centres of the world.

The plan is to make a world attack on disease. Every daughter clinic will co-operate with the London mother clinic by devoting their entire research simultaneously over a three-year period to a single specific disease.

The first on the list is rheumatism. The second will probably be the common cold.

Behind this great venture is a recently formed organization, the Medical Association of the International Clinic, of which Dr. A. J. Douglas Cameron, a West End general practitioner, is president.

At the first public meeting of the association at Wigmore Hall, Professor and Madame Joliot-Curie, winners of the Nobel Prize for chemistry, spoke on their experiments with artificial radium. The Chinese Ambassador, Mr. Quo Tai-chi, presided.

At Sherwood Park an experiment preparatory to the present scheme has been tried with great success during the past three years. From it has evolved a new kind of family doctor. It is primarily a diagnostician, who calls upon the services of specialists for actual treatment.

The conviction of young medical research workers to-day is that the next step in medicine is to bring the treatment of the ordinary patient by the ordinary family doctor in every country up to date, said an official of the clinic.

“As much progress in medicine has been made in the last ten as during the previous 100 years.”

Quarterly conferences will be held at the London clinic at which the world's greatest experts will give the results of their experiments.

The first conference will take place on Nov. 19, when German doctors are expected. For the February conference Japanese doctors will be invited.

EVELESS EDEN

About fifteen hundred miles north-east of Sydney two men have found a modern Eden. It is Sunday Island, in the Kermadec group.

When the New Zealand government steamer, Matai, called on her last voyage, she was the first ship they had seen for two years. They told the captain that they did not care in the least if they never saw a ship again, so happy were they away from the world's troubles and alarms, says Austral News.

They shoot or snare wild duck and other fowl. Peaches, oranges and tomatoes grow in profusion. There is a hot mineral bath, besides an excellent surfing beach.

They have liberty to get up when they like, do what they like, and wear as little as they like. They lack one ingredient of Eden—the companionship of woman—and they say they are quite contented as they are, thank you very much.

Prince Who Analysed Himself Too Much

PRINCE Leopold Loewenstein, the psycho-analyst, has over-analysed himself and is now receiving treatment at the hands of another psycho-analyst to readjust idiosyncrasies he has developed.

This is what he told a reporter: “William Gerhardt and I wrote a book called ‘Meet Yourself.’ To collect and adjust the necessary information I read every important work on psychology and psycho-analysis.

“A list was made of universal characteristics and a method devised whereby any reader would be guided to read only those portions reflecting his own outstanding features.

“We applied the method to ourselves, and I must confess that some of the truths revealed about myself were not as flattering as I would like. “The production of the work had a very odd effect on me personally. I began to feel like a god.

“In the end I had to go to a practicing psycho-analyst to get my own individual idiosyncrasies in harmony again, and I am still having treatment.”

Vancouver Celebrates Jubilee

CANADIAN CITY EN FETE

Vancouver, July 1.

The City of Vancouver, which in 50 years has grown from a frontier settlement nestling amid stately trees to a modern city of towering buildings, commenced celebration of its golden Jubilee to-day with one of the most colourful programmes of festivities ever witnessed in Canada.

In 1886 Vancouver was a typical pioneer town, with crudely-built homes standing in clearings in virgin forest. In the same year a great fire swept the settlement, leaving it in ruins. It was on these ruins that the present great city was founded and flourished into one of the leading cities and ports in Canada, occupying 180 square miles, with a population of more than 300,000.

Vancouver to-day is the capital of one of the greatest lumbering, fishing and mining provinces in Canada. Last year British Columbia produced nearly $77,000,000 worth of timber products, more than $15,750,000 worth of fish, and $47,807,157 in minerals. Vancouver harbour handled 6,339,636 tons of cargo, along its 56 miles of waterfront. Vessels from virtually every corner of the earth visit the port every year.

PROGRAMME SPANS 60 DAYS

To mark this steady programme and its 50th birthday the city has donned holiday garb and embarked on two months of festivities. The programme will include military and aerial displays, fairs, pageants, social events, an elaborate programme of sports, and numerous exhibitions of several states, and England's delegation will be headed by the Lord Mayor of London. France, the United States, Britain and Germany will dispatch warships to visit the port during the jubilee.

Probably the greatest and most elaborate spectacle of the celebrations will be the presentation of the “Romance of Vancouver” pageant, during which the progress of Vancouver from its foundation to the present day will be portrayed in 50 brilliant scenes on a huge revolving stage for four weeks by a cast of 300.

Specially-prepared exhibits representing nearly every industry and line of endeavour which helped to make the city what it is to-day will be placed on view.

The celebrations will attain international proportions by an air derby from Vancouver to Seattle, the visit of 15,000 Shriners from Seattle, a world's heavyweight championship wrestling match, International golf tournaments, and other events.

YACHTS TO RACE The jubilee was opened with ceremonies at Stanley Park, attended by many world-famous figures. Other features of the jubilee will be International yacht races at English Bay from to-day to Sept. 7, Canadian Olympic Games Trials on July 1, Norwegian celebration of the landing of Lief Eriksson in which 4,000 persons will participate on July 25, Canadian Lawn Tennis Championship tournament from Aug. 3 to 8, Elks' Flag day demonstrations in which 40,000 children will participate on Aug. 8, Open golf championship on Aug. 9, and International Pageants at Stanley Park Aug. 10, 11 and 12.

Also appearing will be further entries in the Telegraph Amateur Photographic Competition. The Supplement will contain the popular entertainment and feature pages, results of last week's Children's Competition, and details of a new contest for the kiddies.

DRIVER FAILED TO STOP

car in view for about 500 yards. The place was well lighted. The injured man had also stated that no crowd had gathered.

Sergeant Clarke added that the man was in a very serious condition for some time. Both his legs and an arm were broken, and his face smashed in. He is now comatose.

Mr. Schofield remanded the case for hearing on July 14 at 3.30 p.m.

OTHER CASES

A. W. Martin, driver of private car No. 3387, was fined $10 by Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, on a summons for driving at a dangerous speed in Electric Road on June 19.

A representative appeared on behalf of defendant and admitted the summons.

Traffic Sub-Inspector S. C. Saunders said defendant drove between 32 and 35 miles an hour from Ah King's slipway to the Electric Company. It was a controlled area, the speed of motor cars being limited to 20 miles an hour.

ANOTHER CASE

In another case, Fan Chi-kuen, driver of private car No. 3450, summoned for having failed to stop after a collision in Caine Road on June 23, and having failed to report within a reasonable period of time, was fined $20 on the second summons and remanded for hearing on the first summons to the afternoon of July 14.

Defendant said he stopped after having knocked down a little girl, but went away when he saw the girl pick herself up and run away.

Traffic Sergeant G. Youe stated that the girl received a fractured right leg. The defendant knocked her down and stopped his car about twelve feet away. He got out, looked back, then got in and drove away. Defendant did not report until about seven hours later, after he had been to his house and notified him about the accident at about 3.30 p.m. The accident occurred about noon.

KOWLOON CASES

A summons for failing to drive with due care and caution, along Castle Peak Road about 6.15 p.m. on June 6, was admitted by E. R. Macdonald, driver of private car No. 3527, before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Traffic Sergeant J. Scrim stated that defendant was driving his car down Lai-chik Hill towards the Prison. Whilst turning the hair-pin bend at the top of the hill, defendant, for some unknown reason, drove to the off-side of the road and struck a rock. He managed to straighten the car No. 1503 which was on the left side of the road and going in the same direction. Damage was caused to the rear mud-guard of car No. 1503.

Defendant pleaded that he had at that time just come out of hospital, and he thought he must have been driving too much that day.

The Magistrate remarked that as defendant had just come out of hospital and had been driving a lot during the day, he must be held responsible. If he was not in a fit condition to drive a car, he should not attempt to do so. There was also risk to other users of the road.

Defendant was fined $20.

F. G. Thomas, driver of private car No. 3396, was summoned for failing to produce his licence to a policeman in uniform at Sai-son Street on June 6, and causing an obstruction with his car in Sai-son Street by the Majestic Theatre. Constable B. 575 stated that the car was parked in the street for about 25 minutes and when he asked defendant for the licence, defendant said he would produce it in the Traffic Office in Hongkong. Defendant pleaded he did not know any Station in Kowloon. A fine of $6 was imposed on the two summonses.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland won the second game four to two, hitting seven times to five. There were no errors. Trosky hit a homer.

Washington beat Philadelphia four to three, though Senators had one error and each had eight hits.

Detroit defeated Chicago seven to one, hitting ten times to seven. The White Sox had two of the three errors.

Werber's home run aided the Red Sox, but Boston was one run short of New York's total of eight at the close. Yankees hit sixteen to thirteen, and had one of the four errors.—Reuter.

that could finally ensure the maintenance of universal peace and the prevention of armed aggression. But if the members of the League wished to rely upon such a scheme, then as M. Maxim Litvinoff (of Russia) so well had said, they must defend it by all means, even by resort to armed force.

Referring to the objection that the burden of the application of military measures would fall principally upon the major powers, Mr. Koo declared that it was fair that the stronger powers should contribute more since they had the greater interests at stake, and so would benefit more from peace.

For the effective organisation and maintenance of peace, the principle of universality was indispensable, Mr. Koo concluded.—Reuter.

Negus' Suggestions

Geneva, July 2.

Emperor Haile Selassie has laid before the League Assembly two resolutions, the first requesting a League members' loan of $10,000,000 under the terms of the Covenant; the second calling for the Assembly to proclaim non-recognition of forcibly annexed country.

A covering note states that Ethiopia is taking these steps to invoke a clear manifestation of the majority of the League members.—Reuter.

Summary of Speeches

London, July 2.

Delegates of the Irish Free State and New Zealand took part in this afternoon's discussion on sanctions at the meeting of the League Assembly at Geneva. The debate will be resumed to-morrow.

Mr. De Valera urged that the Great Powers should meet now in a peace conference to prevent war rather than to wait for a conference which would have to be held after Europe had once more been drenched in blood.

Sir James Parr (New Zealand) favoured the maintenance of sanctions, but would acquiesce if the majority of League members favoured suspension. Referring to League reform, he advocated that all nations of the world should be invited to the September meeting of the Assembly.

Other speakers this afternoon included Senor Riva Viana (Chile), who supported Argentina's initiative in non-recognition of the Italian conquest and added that unless confidence in the efficacy of the League were restored, Chile might reconsider her continued membership.

Mr. K. G. Westman (Sweden), said that the sanctions front was already broken, but nothing could reverse the Assembly's verdict that Italy was the aggressor. He deplored the fact that the League was no universal.

Baron Blumel (Austria), referring to the Italian memorandum presented to the League at the opening of the Assembly meeting, said it was inspired by the spirit of the Covenant.

Among earlier speakers were Mr. Stanley Bruce (Australia), who said that in view of the facts his Government were of the opinion that the time had been reached when in this dispute sanctions were of no further avail and should be lifted. The alternative meant war, for which, he thought, they were not prepared, and this view was strengthened when they considered the acute anxiety which the present situation in Europe was causing. Austria was ready to review the system of collective security and he was of the opinion that the Covenant should be reinforced.

Delegates of Uruguay, Denmark, Switzerland and Holland also indicated support for the lifting of sanctions.—British Wireless.

Italian Solidarity

Geneva, July 2.

The Italian delegation to the League Assembly announces that the remainder of the Italian journalists have left Geneva in order to mark their solidarity with those of their companions who were expelled following the demonstration in the Assembly Chamber against Emperor Haile Selassie.

They have all gone to another Canton and will go home to Italy together.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

Keeping Memory of Mdivanis Green

THE name of the "marrying Mdivanis" is to be handed down to posterity.

Princess Nina Mdivani, whose brothers, Prince Serge and Prince Alexis Mdivani, were killed in accidents, revealed in London, that she and her only surviving brother, Prince David, have decided to present

A polo trophy to be played for in England in commemoration of Prince Serge, who was killed during a match in the United States three months ago.

A motor-racing cup to be raced for in this country in memory of Prince Alexis, killed in a car accident in Spain last autumn.

A scholarship to the new Indian state school founded by the young Maharajah of Jaipur, who is now in London and against whom Prince Alexis' polo team, Les Diables, played last year.

THEIR LIVING WISHES

"Although I am not a Spiritualist I am convinced that the personalities of my brothers, and of my fiancée's father the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, survive, so that communication between the two worlds is possible," the princess said.

"I want, therefore, to carry out my brothers' living wishes."

"Alex wanted to give Jaipur's school a scholarship, but he was killed before his wish could be fulfilled. The Maharajah over-ruled Lee Diables with kindness and Alex could think of no better way of showing his appreciation."

"Polo was the thing Serge cared most in the world for and he so enjoyed his season over here where I, Denis Conan Doyle, my fiancée, and I are going to live after our marriage in September, that I think a memorial in the shape of a polo trophy is extremely suitable."

"Denis and Alex were friends and shared my passion for motor-racing. That accounts for the decision to give a motor-racing cup."

GERMAN FLEET FLIES KAISER'S WAR FLAG

Berlin, June 1.

Imperial Germany's war flag will fly to-morrow, by command of Chancellor Hitler, on all navy vessels in home waters to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the Battle of Jutland.

Germany claims Jutland as a victory over the British Fleet. The Imperial flag will also be hoisted on the Kiel Navy Memorial to be inaugurated by Hitler to-morrow.

"Both British and Jews have lost prestige, and the Jews now set their hope more on the Red Army of Russia than on the British Navy."

"I have again and again referred to the dwindling power of Britain. Now the British themselves are rubbing their sleepy eyes."—Reuter.

SCREEN TSAR HAS LOST $8,500,000

WILLIAM FOX FILES HIS PETITION

New York, June 21.

ONCE Tsar of the Film and the most powerful man in the industry, Mr. William Fox has filed his petition at Camden, New Jersey, with liabilities estimated at $1,800,000 and assets at $400,000.

Mr. Fox, who was born in Hungary 57 years ago and went to U.S.A. as a child, entered the picture business in 1904 as a theatre manager.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL

He built up the Fox Film Corporation, and in 1929 obtained controlling interest in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Co., and a 49 per cent. interest in Gaumont-British.

A year later when the U.S. Stock Market collapsed, he became involved in a long-drawn-out struggle for the control of Fox Films and Fox Theatres.

At one time Mr. Fox's personal fortune was estimated at $7,000,000. He has given more than $1,000,000 to charity, and has described himself as the most insured man in the world—he has life policies for $1,280,000. Thus, in a few years Mr. Fox has not only lost his $7,000,000 fortune, but nearly $1,500,000 besides.

TOBACCO HIDDEN UNDER FRUIT SEIZURE OF BANANAS RESENTED

At the Central Police Court this morning, a woman, Wong Leung, charged with the possession of a quantity of dutiable tobacco concealed in two baskets of bananas.

Revenue Officer W. Ward stated that a widow, So Siu-lam, had claimed the tobacco, and the prosecution would withdraw the charge against Wong Leung. She was accordingly discharged.

Mr. D. Brittain Evans, appearing for So Siu-lam, pleaded guilty and explained that she was a widow and her husband was employed in the firm of Johnson, Stokes and Master. She had been in the country for three years and did not know she was committing an offence.

R. O. Ward applied for the confiscation of the bananas and baskets on the instructions of the Superintendent of Imports and Exports.

Mr. Evans: I think it is a great shame. Take a few of the bananas, but surely not the whole lot. You cannot conceal anything in a banana. The baskets, I agree, should be confiscated, as they are the vehicles, but not the bananas.

R. O. Ward argued that the tobacco was concealed underneath the fruit. The confiscation order was granted. The tobacco was also confiscated.

Among the arrivals from the United States on the President Coolidge yesterday afternoon, accompanied by his mother who had travelled to Kobe to meet him, was Donald Lindsay Ballantyne, Jr., son of the Manager of the Chamber Bank in Hongkong. A very popular member of the local American community, "Slippy," as he is known to his friends, has been to the Archmere School, Claymont, Delaware for the past twelve months, and has come to spend his summer vacation with his parents in Hongkong.

The forthcoming wedding is announced of Mr. Hugh Gregory Anson, taught St. Joseph's College, and Miss Doris Margaret Lee, teacher, Sisters of the Immaculate Conception.

"BEDFORD" A TOUGH, POPULAR TRUCK

—and a Service worthy of it!

EVERY month big shipments of Bedford trucks leave England for every part of the world. And the rising export figures and many hundreds of enthusiastic letters from Bedford owners all over the world have shown that the Bedford is popular wherever it goes. Why this success? For, in designing the Bedford range, Vauxhall experts studied overseas conditions at first hand. They learnt what was wanted in trucks from the very men who were going to use them. And there is a world-wide organisation to make Bedford service and genuine spares available everywhere. Tested at every stage in the famous Luton works in England, proved sound and reliable on the roughest work in the world, the Bedford is a first-class investment whatever the nature of the work!

There's a Bedford Model for every business.

MISCHIEF-MAKING BY RADIO

The reference in the House of Commons last week to the Italian propaganda, broadcast in Arabic in the Near East, for the particular benefit of Palestine, raises a matter of which official British notice had to be taken. It is, indeed, a subject which, according to the Colonial Secretary, is receiving the careful attention of the Palestine Government. This obvious effort to stir up ill-will against Britain illustrates the point that wireless is a somewhat mixed blessing, for it is constantly being utilised to set nation against nation and people against people. The propaganda emanating from the Italian stations has been purposely designed with the object of causing mischief in Palestine and other countries in the law and order of which the British Government is closely interested, and it has recently been the subject of much comment in the London press. The mischief-makers start with a distinct advantage, for it is the easiest thing in the world to play upon the prejudices of a people, be they Arabs or Hindus, who imagine they have a grievance against the British or any other Government. A few malicious insinuations and unfounded allegations may suffice to sow the seeds of widespread revolt. To counter the effects of such propaganda is always difficult and often impossible. If Mussolini wishes the British Government and people to believe that he seeks to renew good relations with them, and that he does not harbour designs on any of the Mediterranean or other territories in which Britain is interested, this propaganda, which is more in keeping with Moscow methods than Roman civilisation, should be stopped. The prostitution of wireless is not in keeping with the honour or prestige of a Great Power that aspires to become greater still. Anti-British propaganda is, unhappily, not confined to radio broadcasts; it has long been evident in the Italian Press, with the result that the Italian people have been given a perverted sense of Britain and all things British, and have been taught to believe that every official assertion from Britain is false and made with evil intent. There is a danger in these tactics, for, as a recent writer in the Times stated, any Dictator can fill his country with hatred and a spirit of war at will. The first necessity for Signor Mussolini, if he wishes to dissipate the feelings aroused in England by Italian aggression in Ethiopia, is that he should take steps to cause a cessation of anti-British propaganda and lead his people in the ways of goodwill with as much earnestness and assiduity as he has hitherto shown in infusing ill-will into their daily thoughts. He obviously has the power to make this contribution to the restoration of the traditional friendship between the two nations, a friendship which has been severely strained by the events of the recent past.

If WELLS Went to WIMBLEDON

Perry and Von Cramm Meet in the Singles Final To-day. Their Herculean Struggle will be the Culmination of Nearly Six Decades of History-Making Tennis by the World's Greatest Players.

By R. Maillard Stead

"If you can meet with Triumph
and Disaster
And treat those two impostors
just the same."

THE world's greatest lawn tennis players stride to victory or defeat each year under these famous words of Rudyard Kipling, carved over the portals of the centre court at Wimbledon. Flanking the panel on which the quotation is engraved, in the hallway of the All-England Club, are the rolls of champions, those immortals of the game who came and saw and conquered. A mighty line they are, stretching back through the years to a time when Wimbledon was merely a suburb of South-west London and lawn tennis was merely lawn tennis.

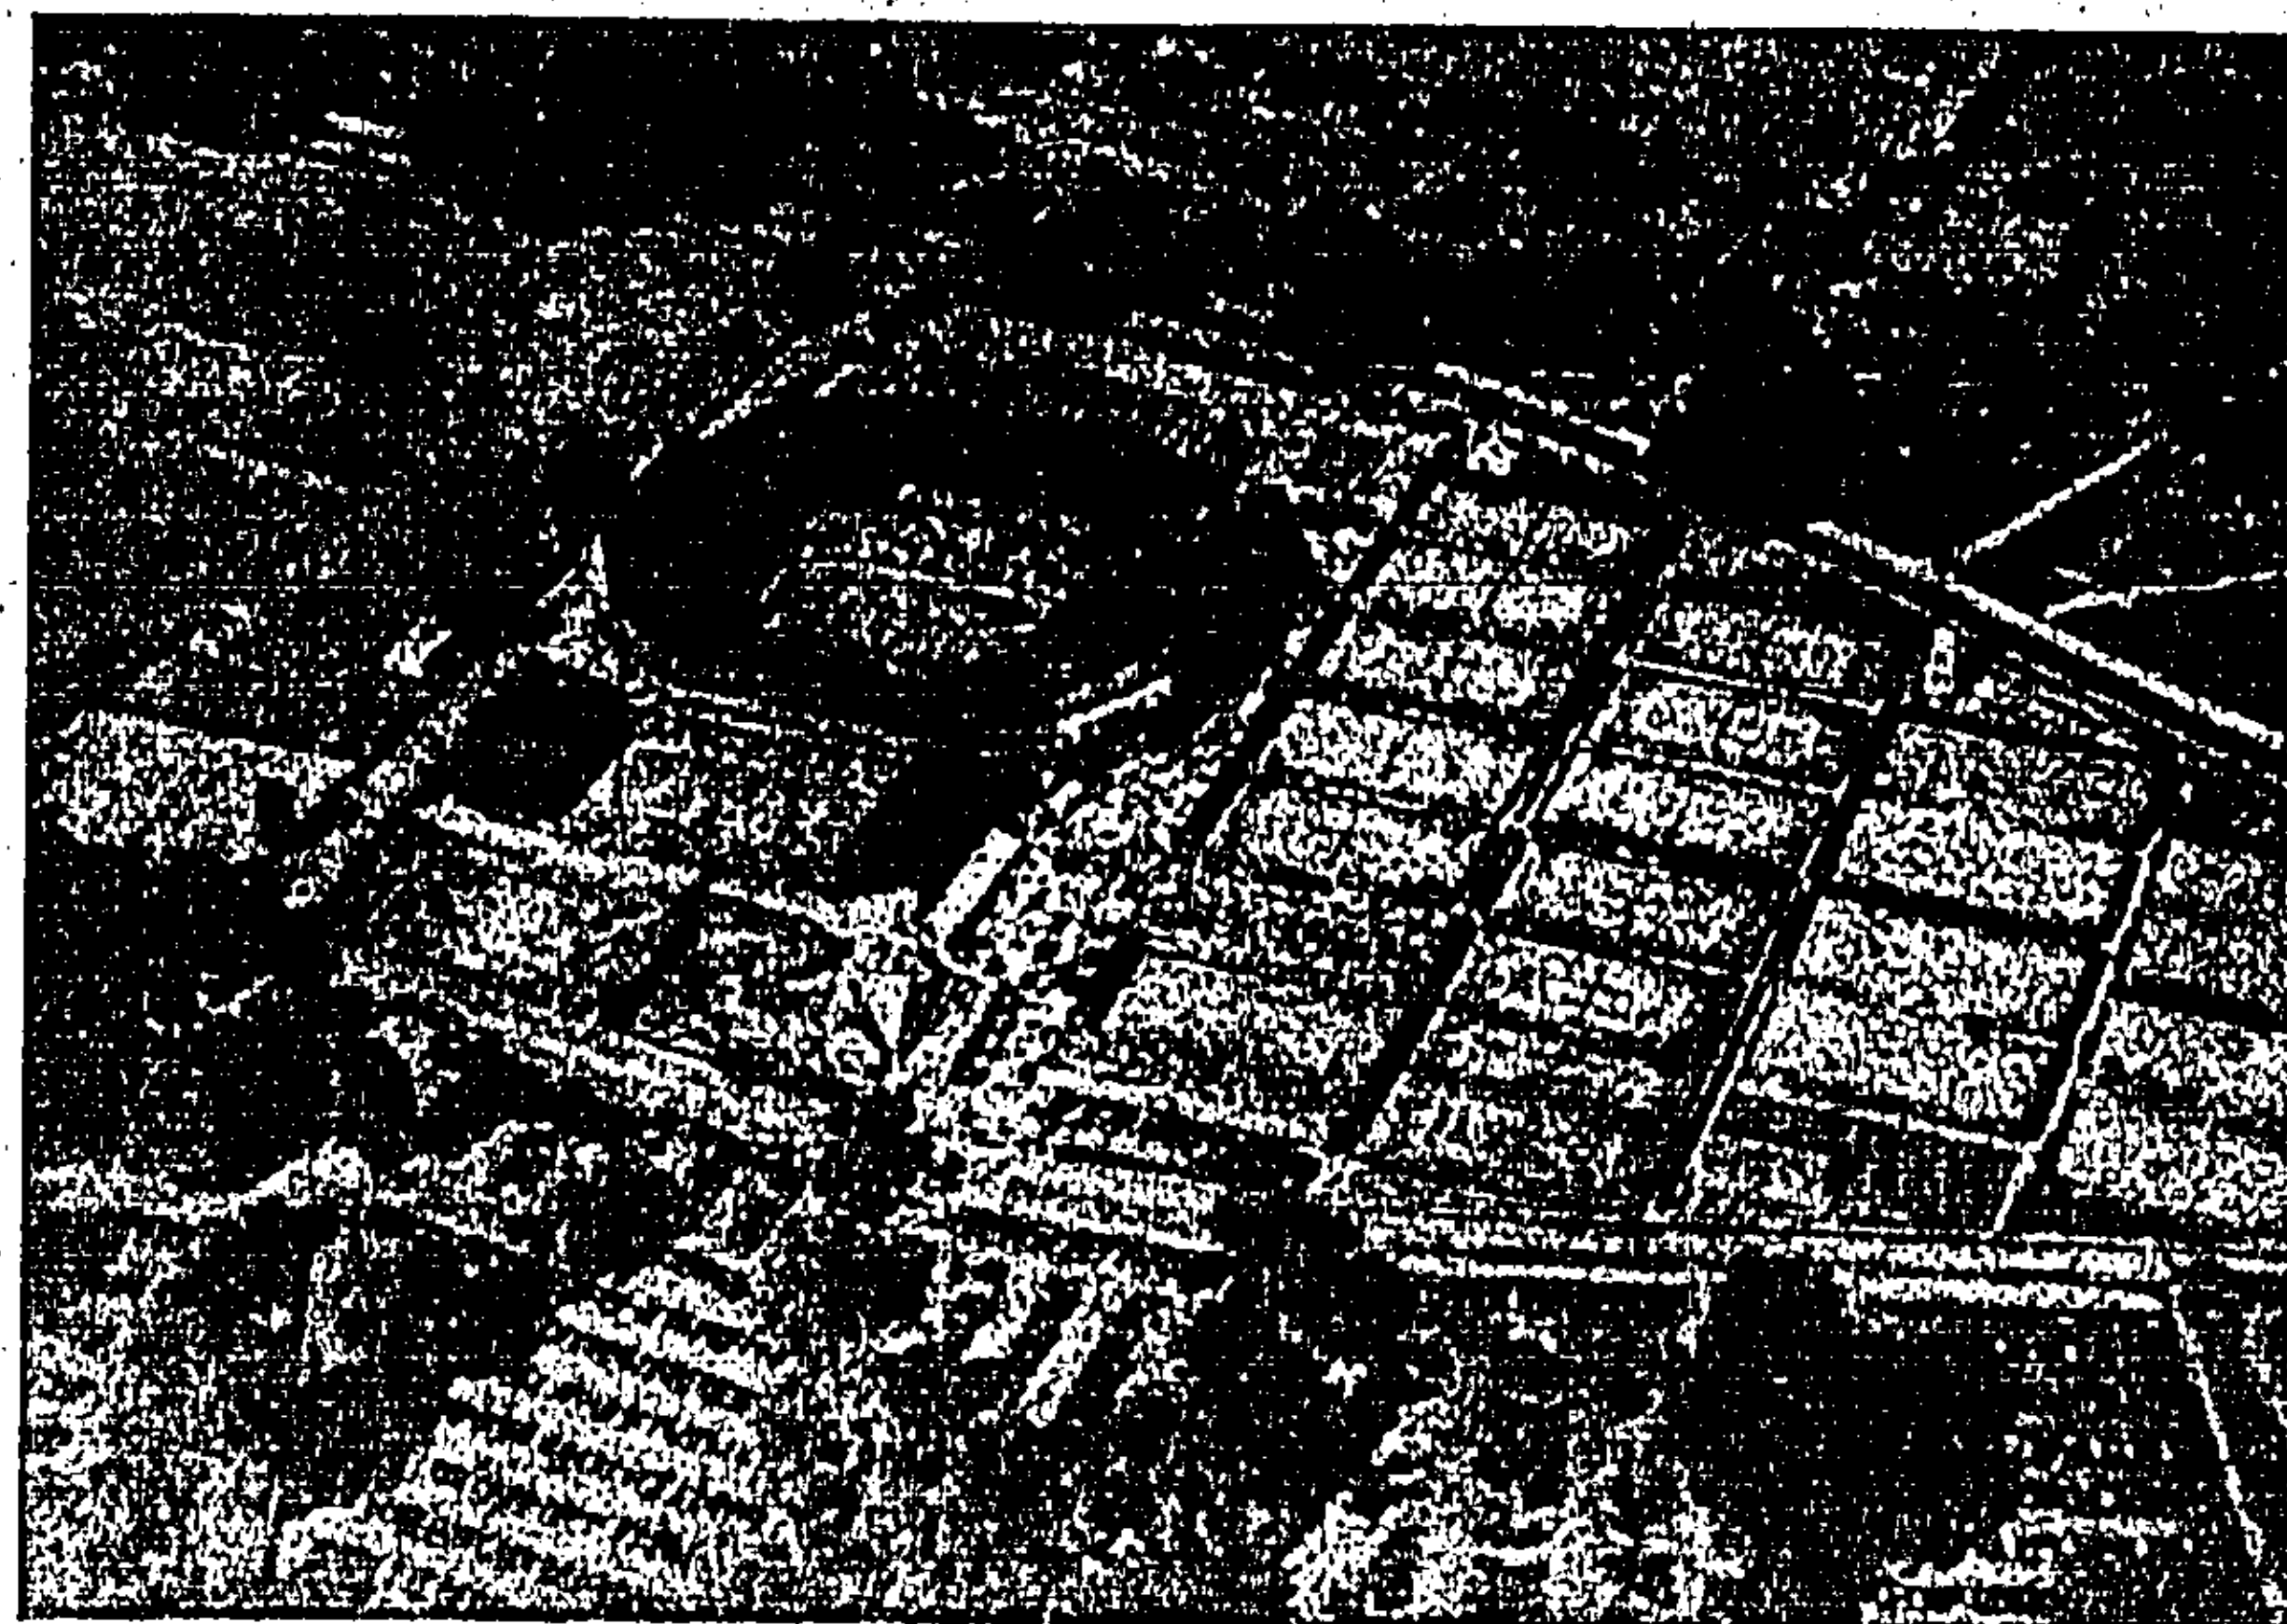

It would be tremendous fun if we could smuggle H. G. Wells's handy little invention, the Time Machine, past the Wimbledon defences, and take a round trip to 1877. It would not be an unbroken excursion through the yesterdays, for back of 1922 we should find ourselves in the open county, confronted with the necessity for a short lateral journey through a few hundred yards of space to Worple Road, the Mecca of players in the heroic age of the game. Arrived at this arena—a humble stadium compared with the £140,000 amphitheatre of modern times—we could buzz along merrily again on all cylinders, tracing Wimbledon centuries of champions from the end to the beginning, until the needle of the gauge shows 1877. That is where we get out.

BRRRRR! It's raining; and the 200 spectators who paid a shilling each to get in for the first Wimbledon final are not looking too chirpy. Surely there is something odd about the net. Let's ask this young man with the flowing mustaches and the top hat. What does he say? Oh, really. Five feet high at the ends and only 3 feet 3 inches in the middle. Our informant says that this arrangement doesn't help S. W. Gore, as he is a player of the rackets school—and likes to make shots down where the side walls would be in a rackets court. W. Mitchell, his opponent, is "real" tennis man, but he can't seem to get a real offensive going. Gore is pinning him onto the base line and coming up to make volleys at the net. How strange it seems to see men serving underhand! I wonder how Perry would shape with the rum-looking shrimp-net rackets and "dead" balls that they are using in the first big lawn tennis competition ever held. The players are not having an easy time on the wet turf and proceedings are suspended several times before Gore wins at 6-1, 6-2, 6-4. Hats off to the first champion!

The rules of play have been completely overhauled for this

Italian Press, with the result that the Italian people have been given a perverted sense of Britain and all things British, and have been taught to believe that every official assertion from Britain is false and made with evil intent. There is a danger in these tactics, for, as a recent writer in the Times stated, any Dictator can fill his country with hatred and a spirit of war at will. The first necessity for Signor Mussolini, if he wishes to dissipate the feelings aroused in England by Italian aggression in Ethiopia, is that he should take steps to cause a cessation of anti-British propaganda and lead his people in the ways of goodwill with as much earnestness and assiduity as he has hitherto shown in infusing ill-will into their daily thoughts. He obviously has the power to make this contribution to the restoration of the traditional friendship between the two nations, a friendship which has been severely strained by the events of the recent past.

THE TENNIS COURTS AT WIMBLEDON WHERE CHAMPIONSHIPS ARE WON AND LOST.

meeting. And players are feeling that it was about time. They didn't care much for the lava drawn up by the tennis committee of the Marylebone Cricket Club to govern "Sphairistike," which (believe it or not) was the name given by gallant Major Wingfield to his 1874 invention of "a new and improved portable court for playing the ancient game of tennis." The rules of "Sticky," as played with much giggling in the garden lawns of Victorian England, varied according to preference and the disposition of the flower beds. A laurel bush or two on the court was just a rub of the green. Much more boisterous fun, though, than croquet, which lawn tennis succeeded both at the vicarage and at the All-England Croquet and Lawn Tennis Club.

That's just what it is. The overseas invaders are crowding persistently round Worple Road and it is clear that they will not be denied. Ah! In 1905 the first title goes abroad. To America, of course. It is taken there by a smiling Californian maiden, Miss May Sutton, now Mrs. T. C. Bundy. Two years later the men's singles championship goes off to Australia with the wily Norman Brookes. The deepening shadow of coming events.

WELL, we can't stay any longer in 1877. We'll just glide through the early "pat-ball" years to the time of the Renshaw twins, when real hitting started and people ceased to regard hard volleys as a dirty business. We see one uncompromising figure driving from the base line against for a home player up to 1934. For the smashing Renshaws. That, a quarter of a century the lion of England is in the wilderness, of course, is H. F. Lawford, who committed himself on paper to the dictum that "Perfect base-line play will beat perfect volleying." He tried very strenuously to prove it, but he found himself adopting volleying tactics in the end. From the crucible of Lawford-Renshaw battles emerged the modern all-court game, a bit rough round the edges.

WHAT memories! Of Wilding and Brookes; of W. T. Tilden and Doherty; of the original "Teddy Bear" Doherty's time, and they are sweeter, so beloved of the cartoonists; of G. L. Patterson with a hindkerchief knotted ferociously about his brow; of Jean Borotra and his beret, the best double act in the game; of W. M. Johnston, Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet, S. B. Wood, Ellsworth Vines and, last but not least, of Jack Crawford, who plays in a sort of gentle reverie that masks a wealth of talent and uncanny anticipation. These are the champions, to whom the impostor came as Triumph. The new champions are an international multitude, of whom F. J. Perry and Von Cramm survive. Perry is now at his zenith, breathing fire on his hurricane way to the net. Austin remains more the artist than the match winner, appearing haply to make a losing stroke in good style than to hit a winner with a scramble.

AND how we can have whizzed our way back to 1936 with such brief reference to the women is more than I can imagine. However, the recollections they have left behind are so vivid that we can hand back the Time Machine to Mr. Wells, and talk of the Wimbledon women from memory. But let us hark back firstly to the gentleman of 1876 who, writing very seriously on the game, said, "I do not think any lady can, or will be able to play the game, as it is very hard work for a man and dress is such a drag."

Comment would be superfluous. In short, or rather shorts, non avoua change tout cela. Which is French, just like the great Miss Suzanne Lenglen, who galvanised the play of the fair sex after the war and brought into it a spectacular appeal that it had never previously known. Suzanne, of the prima donna temperament and exquisite touch, won the women's championship six times in seven years between 1919 and 1925. Her successor as Queen of the Courts was Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, a hard-hitting Californian girl of meditative mien. Helen won last year to equal the seven successes gained by the great English base-liner, Mrs. Lambert Chambers, between 1903 and 1914. Only one other person, William Renshaw, has been singles champion at Wimbledon so often as that, although Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California has the astounding record of 12 victories in mixed and women's doubles. This great chop-stroke artist first played at Wimbledon in 1912 and since then she has not missed a single meeting. Two English women only have been crowned champions since the Lambert Chambers era. They are Mrs. L. A. Godfree who won in 1924 and 1926, and Dorothy Round who won in 1934.

THE patient queue, that has spent the morning leaning up against the fence outside the ground, surges round the centre court to take up standing room and eat sandwiches, ticket holders (successful in a ballot for seats at enormous odds) arrive rather grandly at the last moment. And the less fortunate people pretend that they are quite satisfied with the matches scheduled for the 14 outside courts. "It's a really better out here to-day," they tell one another, with their eyes fixed on the illuminated score indicator which flashes the story from the centre court.

Some of these good people—one day they numbered 30,000—are keen students of the game, fully aware of such grave things as the fact that the "last eight" at Wimbledon is a fair reflection of the international situation with regard to the Davis Cup. Others are more concerned with the qualities of the strawberries and cream. (After all, Wimbledon is good either way.

K. C. C. CHAMPIONSHIP HOPES STOPPED SHORT

REVERSE AT RECREIO

Yesterday's Tennis

"C" DIVISION

(By "Veritas")

The challenge for the "C" Division league tennis championship has started to narrow. Up to yesterday four teams remained unbeaten. But the defeat of K.C.C. (1) by Recreio has altered the complexion of things.

The K.C.C. first string must now be regarded as out of the running as they have yet to meet K.I.T.C. and South China, two teams as powerful as Recreio.

K.C.C. did not do themselves justice against Recreio. The absence of W. Gittins apparently had a psychological effect upon them, though this was hardly an adequate reason for the breakdown of two pairs.

Recreio won with such ease because, with the exception of Watson and Capell, they were able to outplay the visitors at close quarters. Majority of K.C.C. players lacked stability from the forecourt. Volleya and smashes were uncontrolled and through this literally dozens of points were given away.

An intensive lobbying campaign might have produced better results for them, for it was noticeable that while Recreio were strong in volleying they were not too happy overhead.

What honours did go to K.C.C. were earned by Charles Watson and Sonny Capell who mixed their tactics of offence and defence as well that they were able to win a set and a half and had the fates been a little kinder, would have won all three sets.

Watson's baseline recoveries and serving return of service had most of the Recreio players disconcerted. Capell, though not quite as dependable in the long rallies, scored a number of times with quick and incisive interceptions at the net.

PREDOMINANT CHARACTERISTIC

The predominant characteristic of the Recreio's league tennis teams is their splendid balance. Comparatively speaking there is nothing to choose in the long rallies, scored a number of times with quick and incisive interceptions at the net.

Results go for anything. A. M. Silva and H. Ribeiro were the outstanding pair in this match, but for spectacular achievement H. A. Noronha and H. Goncalves won the prize. For two sets they simply "sat" on the net, volleying with power and returning everything within reach. The keynote of their tennis is attack, although the same factor predominates with all of the Recreio players.

A. M. Silva was the most accomplished individual performer. It was his brainy tennis which brought about the defeat of Watson and Capell. The similarity between his tennis and badminton tactics is astonishing. He has the same subtlety of placement, and clever variation of length and pace. Recreio were handsome winners. Not flattered by the score but a little fortunate to find the majority of K.C.C. players in such writhed form.

On their own ground, the Club de Recreio defeated the K.C.C. "A" by 7½ sets to 1½. Scores:

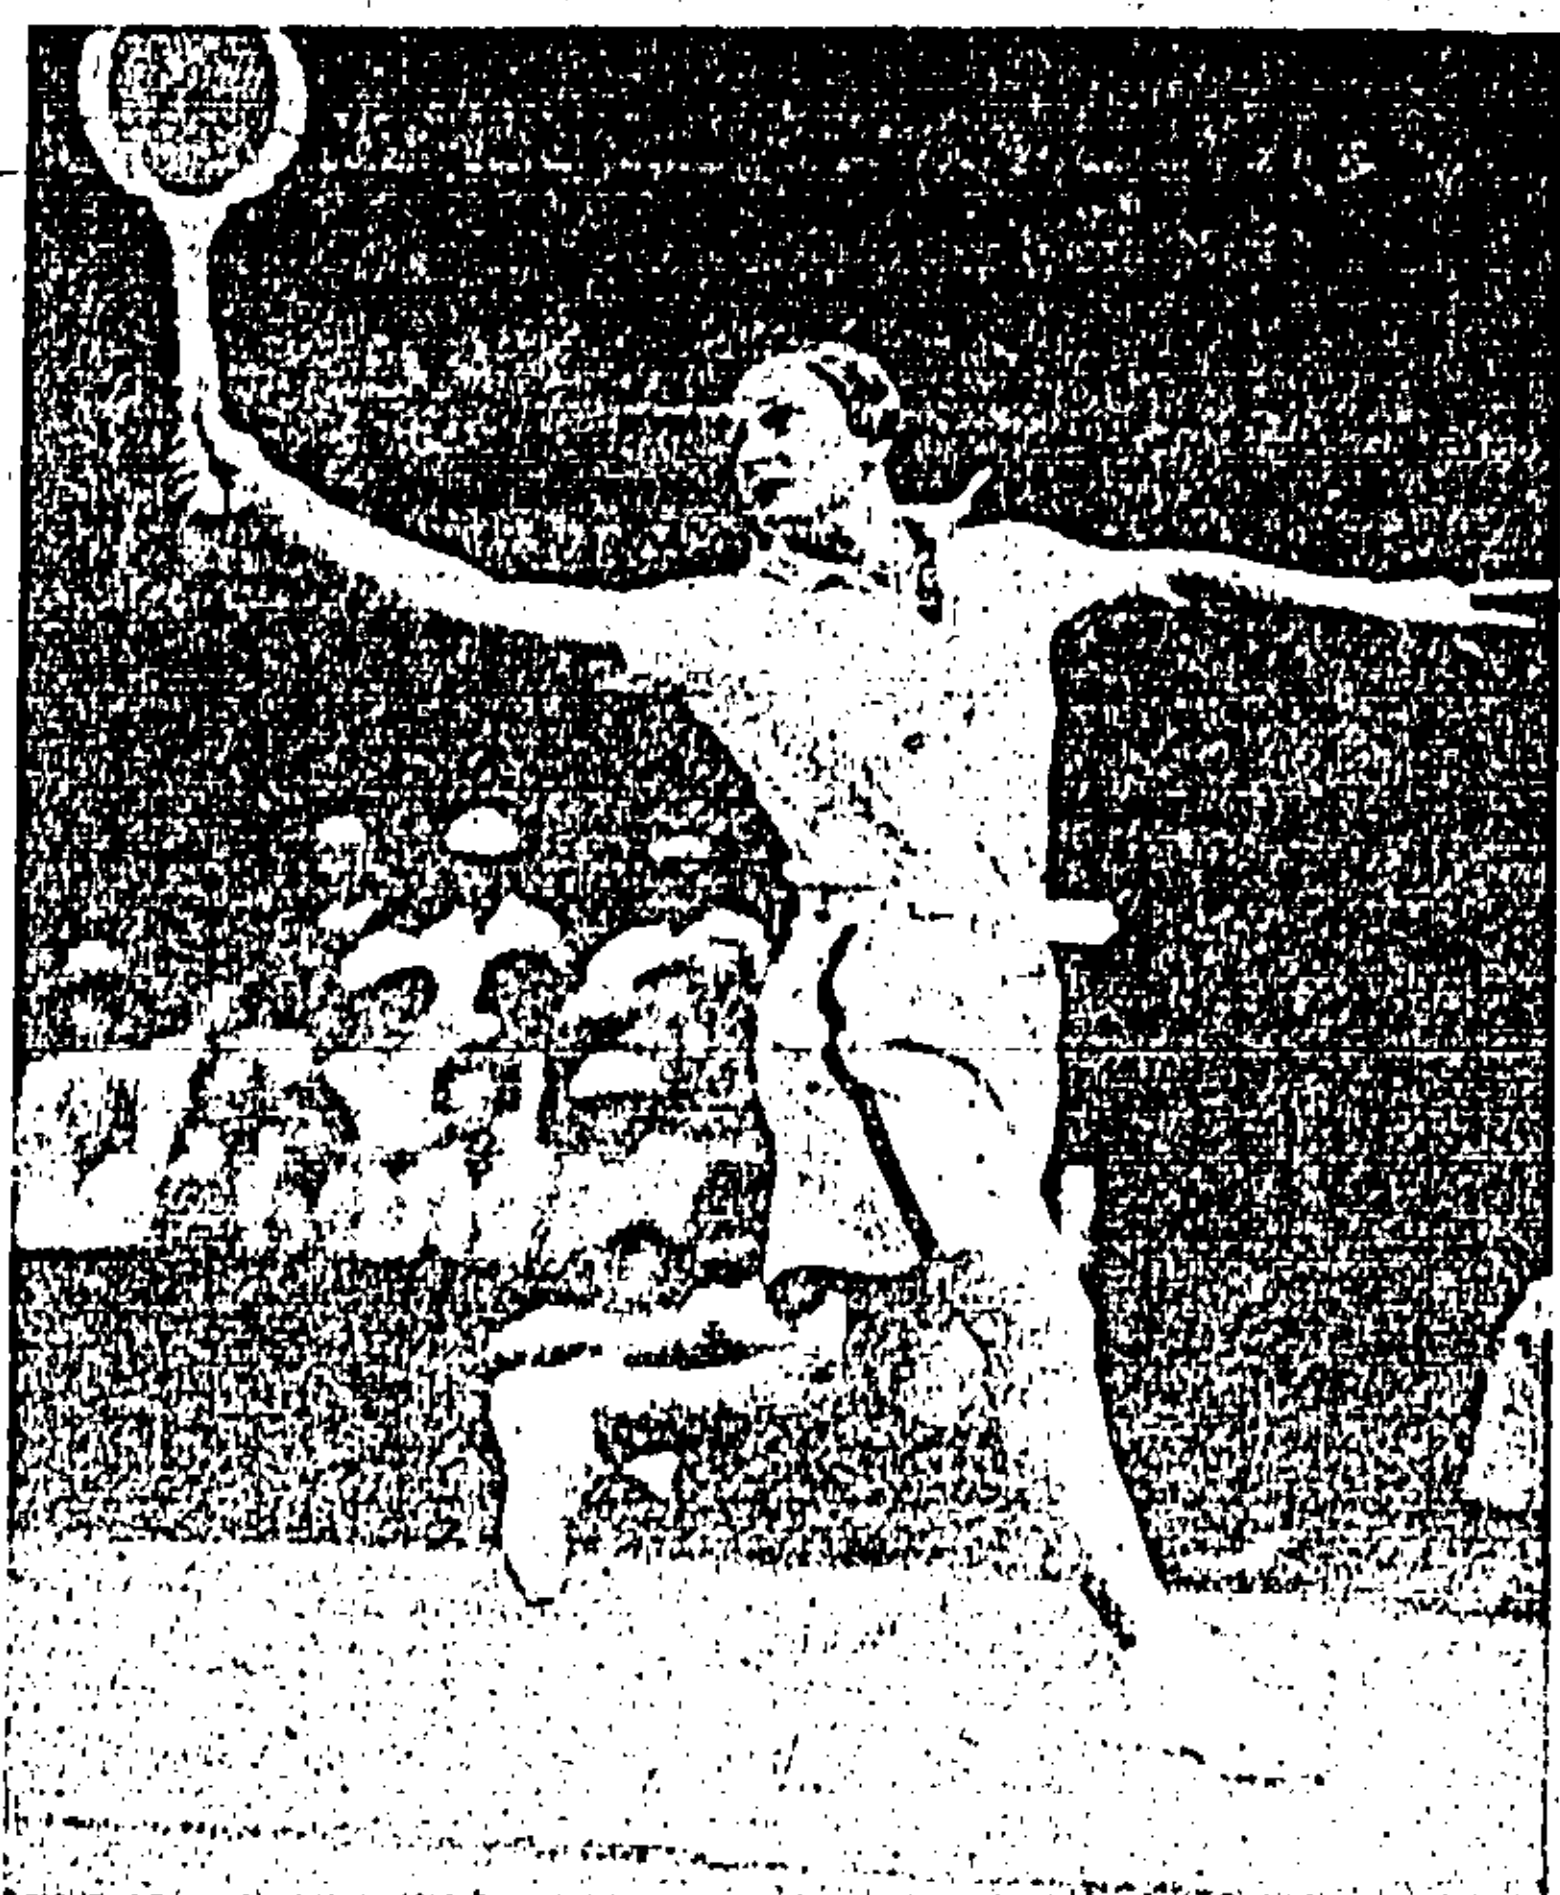

A. M. Silva and H. A. Ribeiro (Recreio) beat Broadbridge and J. S. Smith 6-2; beat White and Jack 6-4; beat Capell and Watson 6-4.

J. Xavier and L. A. Silva (Recreio) beat Broadbridge and Smith 6-0; beat White and Jack 6-0; drew with Capell and Watson 6-6.

H. A. Noronha and H. Goncalves (Recreio) beat Broadbridge and Smith 6-2; beat White and Jack 6-3; lost to Capell and Watson 3-6.

SIX LOVE SETS IN SUCCESSION

Hussain Bros' Records

If S. A. and S. S. Hussain, who play first string for Kowloon Indian Tennis Club's "C" Division team, continue as they are going, they will establish hitherto unaccomplished league records.

On Tuesday they helped themselves to three love sets at the expense of the I.R.C. Yesterday, against Civil Service they repeated the achievement. This in itself is probably an unprecedented accomplishment in local league tennis.

As yet they have not conceded as much as half a set in four league matches, and it will require the best Recreio and South China pairs to beat them.

Their presence is making K.I.T.C. one of the most formidable teams in the division. To-day the team heads the league table by virtue of sets average and with a 100 per cent. record.

Civil Service yesterday could not get within striking distance of winning a set. In addition to the Hussain brothers' three love sets, M. A. Khan and Piroos Khan won a love set and the other two sets with the loss of one game in each. I. Mahan Singh and T. M. C. Levan were made to concede three games in each of two sets, but the third they won 6-1.

At King's Park, the Civil Service lost to the K.I.T.C. by nine sets. Scores:

S. A. Hussain and S. S. Hussain (K.I.T.C.) beat J. Bentley and W. Agafuroff 6-0; beat R. Wood and W. Colledge 6-0; beat J. C. Boustead and R. Simpson 6-0.

M. A. Khan and Piroos Khan (K.I.T.C.) beat Bentley and Agafuroff 6-0; beat Wood and Colledge 6-1; beat Boustead and Simpson 6-1.

Britain Will Win Davis Cup

PERRY PROPHESES A FOURTH VICTORY

Plymouth, June 11.

The winners of the Davis Cup this year will be Australia, according to Wilmer Allison, America's No. 1 player who arrived here on the liner Washington to-night.

On the other hand Fred Perry has every confidence in Britain's ability to hold the trophy for the fourth year in succession.

Perry came here with his wife, Helen Vinson, the film star, to meet his mother-in-law.

Allison was accompanied by Donald Budge, Bryant Grant, Gene Make, Harold Surface, and John Van Ryn.

In Doubles Match

YESTERDAY AT WIMBLEDON

London, July 2. Brugnon and Borotra (France) and Allison and Van Ryn (U.S.A.) joined Tuckey and Hughes (England) in the semi-finals of the men's doubles championship at Wimbledon to-day.

The French couple had a stern struggle against A. M. Cunningham (U.S.A.) and E. Itoh (Japan) in the course of which Borotra badly damaged his foot and finished the match in great pain.

Cunningham and Itoh made a great effort by the second and third sets. They lost the one to 7-5 and won the other by the same score.

The Frenchmen ran out fairly comfortable winners in the fourth set, although the opposition saved nine match points in succession.

Following upon their gift match from Von Cramm and Jockel, Allison and Van Ryn proceeded to annihilate Vivian McGrath and Clifford Sproule the Australians, beating them in straight sets.

There were several mixed doubles matches played. Donald Budge and Mrs. Sarah Fabryan won very easily while Marcel Petre and Mme. Mathieu continued to advance, their victims this time being Cunningham and Miss A. Ostreich of England.

It is now revealed by United Press that J. Van Ryn is not playing with Miss Helen Jacobs in the mixed doubles, but with his wife, who was a member of this year's Wightman Cup team.

To-day Mr. and Mrs. Van Ryn were beaten by Martin Legney and Mlle. Henrotin of France.

4TH FINAL IN FIVE YEARS

Miss Jacobs' Chance

FOR TITLE

After the quarter-final results it was fairly safe to predict that Miss Helen Jacobs and Mme. Sperling would become the finalists in the women's singles championship at Wimbledon. They accomplished this yesterday when Miss Jacobs beat Mlle. Jedrejowska of Poland 6-4, 6-2 and Mme. Sperling defeated Mme. Mathieu of France 6-3, 6-2.

Miss Jacobs and Mme. Sperling will bring Wimbledon to a fitting close to-morrow, when it is certain that there will be a capacity attendance on the Centre Court in the hopes of witnessing the triumph of Miss Jacobs. Hers would be one of the most popular victories in recent years.

This will be Miss Jacobs fourth final within five years and as yet she has never succeeded in winning the title.

Last year she went nearer than at any other time in her career when she actually led Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody 6-2 in the final set only to be hauled back and beaten.

It was to Mrs. Wills-Moody that she lost in 1932, while her conqueror in the final of 1934 was Miss Dorothy Round.

In 1933 she lost to Dorothy Round in the semi-final and it was at the same stage that she fell a victim to Mme. Sperling (then Frl. Krahwinkel) in 1931. In 1930 she reached the quarter-finals only to be beaten by Frl. Cilly Aussem.

It is noteworthy that Miss Jacobs has won every major title except the Wimbledon singles, but it is generally conceded that she has a better chance this year than ever before.

Mme. Sperling, of course, has been playing magnificently as testified by her straight sets defeat of Dorothy Round in the quarter-finals and of Mme. Mathieu yesterday.

Last year these two met in the semi-finals at Wimbledon when Helen Jacobs won in straight sets. It will probably take her three sets to accomplish this to-morrow.

DAVIS CUP MATCH ENCORE?

Stonewalled Out Of Championship

London, July 2. Two English pairs figure in the semi-finals of the men's doubles at Wimbledon, and they are in different sections. In consequence E.H.D. Wilde and C.E. Hare (England) will oppose J. Brugnon and J. Borotra (France) while W. Allison and J. Van Ryn (U.S.A.) will meet G.P. Hughes and K.F.D. Tuckey (England), says a Reuter message.

The second match is of rare interest, bringing together as it does, the four contestants in last year's epic Davis Cup challenge round match which the English pair won after an exhilarating encounter.

Equally as important is the other tie, as Wilde and Hare are regarded as possible Davis Cup players this year. This may be their big opportunity of proving strong enough for inclusion in the team as the doubles combination.

If both Hare and Wilde and Hughes and Tuckey should win it will be the first all-English final since 1913, and will mean that the title returns to England after 13 years.

Reuter in describing the women's singles semi-final games, says Mme. Sperling stonewalled Mme. Mathieu out of the championship.

Helen Jacobs won comfortably, but the final is by no means a certainty for the American, as the Danish player is in great form. The Perry-Von Cramm final is expected to be a hard-fought struggle, particularly in view of Von Cramm's success in Paris last month.

AT HENLEY

WEATHER AWFUL: RACING FINE

U.S. CREWS ARE GOING STRONG

London, July 2. Weather made to-day one of the nastiest in the history of Henley Regatta, but there was a lot of excitement racing with close finishes and first-class rowing, all offering plenty of thrills.

The much talked-of Tokyo crew easily won their heat in the Grand Challenge Cup against Quanton despite the fact they stroked 48 and returned the slowest time of all the heats.

But they will find Lander, who beat Boston (U.S.A.), conquerors of Pembroke (Cambridge), and Zurich, who overcame Jesus, very formidable opposition.

The American crews again fared well. Thames R.C., Tabor Academy and Kent School all had easy wins against Lady, Margaret and Molesey respectively.

Browne Nichols scored a thrilling half-a-length win over Thames. British scullers were to the fore in the Diamonds - where Ruffi of Switzerland had the only foreign competitor left. Warren of Cambridge beat De Milo of Canada, Tyler of Thames beat Cousin of Canada, the last named capsizing after his swivel had broken. Winston of Molesey beat Johnson of America in the same event.

All Oxford college crews have now been eliminated from the Ladies' Plate.—Reuter.

All-India's Faith In Captain

"CRITICISM "NOT CRICKET"

"I have every confidence in the Maharaj Kumar of Vilanangan," said Major K. Brittain Jones, manager of the All-India cricket team, at Sunderland replying to suggestions contained in a report from Bombay, that the lack of success of the team is due to indifferent captaincy.

"The Kumar has fully justified his selection as captain," he added, "and I am sure that I speak for the team when I say that."

"We have had a run of bad luck in our matches in this country, but it is not because the side is a bad one or because the captain is indifferent that we have been losing games. We have been very unfortunate in regard to casualties, and also in regard to the weather."

"You cannot blame the captain if his batsmen do not get the runs," Major Brittain Jones concluded. "It is not cricket."

The Indians have played ten first-class matches so far. None has been won, six have been lost and four drawn.

INDIA ANNOYED

India is annoyed at the criticism. Although one Bombay newspaper has attacked Maharaj Kumar's captaincy, there is nothing to indicate that such criticism is widespread, it is pointed out.

This newspaper's opinion undoubtedly reflects a certain section of cricket opinion in Bombay, but, on the other hand, there is a considerable amount of sympathy with the Indian captain's difficulties, which are regarded as being due to circumstances beyond his control.

NEW GOAL-KICK LAW APPROVED

Surprises In F.A. Cup Exemptions

At the F.A. Annual General Meeting, Mr. C. E. Sutcliffe, the new president of the Football League, was elected a Vice-President of the Association.

It was decided to support various alterations to the laws of the game, when the International Board met, especially one proposed by Scotland that from a goal-kick the ball must be kicked direct into play and not simply touched by a full-back to the goalkeeper.

The Council voted away large sums of money to various organizations, including £5,000 to the King George National memorial fund and £100 to the British Olympic Association in support of a fund to send a representative team of athletes to Berlin.

All the First and Second Division clubs, with Luton, Chester and Port Vale, 47 in all, were exempt until the third round of the F.A. Cup. The resuming Third Division clubs of both sections, as well as the Corinthians and Ilford, were exempt until the first round.

The following 24 clubs were exempt until the fourth round of the qualifying competition: Bath City, Blyth Spartans, Burton Town, Darford, Darwen, Dulwich Hamlet, Folkestone, Gainsborough, Guildford, Kidderminster, Lancaster, Margate, North Shields, Oxford City, Southampton, Shildon, Southall, Stalybridge, Tunbridge Wells Rangers, Walthamstow Avenue, Wigan Athletic, Wimbledon, Worthington, Yeovil, and Peters.

FOOTBALL LEAGUE PASS 4-UP, 4-DOWN PLAN: THEN RESCIND IT

An unprecedented incident took place at the annual general meeting of the Football League, held in London last month.

When Mr. Bendie Moore's proposal that four clubs be relegated and four promoted with the resultant two four-yearly divisions was put to the vote, Mr. C. E. Sutcliffe, acting president, announced that the proposal was carried by 30 votes to 14.

A few minutes later it was discovered that, according to League rules, a three-fourths majority was necessary before a resolution could be carried. A third count, this time by calling the clubs by name, took place. As the voting ended at 33 for, 15 against, Mr. Sutcliffe finally rescinded the resolution.

Only First Division clubs voted against it. They were: Birmingham, Bolton, Chelsea, Everton, Huddersfield, Liverpool, Manchester City, Middlesbrough, Portsmouth, Preston, Sheffield Wednesday, Stoke, Sunderland, West Bromwich and Wolves.

The election of officers, contrary to expectations, passed off quietly. Mr. Sutcliffe was elected president.

PROBING AMERICAN FINANCE

MORGENTHAU DEFENDS POSITION ENORMOUS EXPENSE

Washington, July 2. In his review of the fiscal year, which was broadcast throughout the nation today, Mr. Henry Morgenthau said that the United States Treasury's revenues were increasing while expenditures were decreasing, and business was steadily improving.

The Secretary of the Treasury cited figures showing that the deficit had increased and the public debt increased wholly as a result of the expenditures on relief measures, the Bonus payments and losses anticipated from the processing taxes revenue.

"We spent $8,500,000,000 excluding debt retirements," he asserted, "while actual receipts aggregated $4,116,000,000. The net excess of expenditures over receipts was $4,400,000,000, but without considering the veterans' payments of $1,700,000,000 the expenditures exceeded receipts by $2,700,000,000."

Further Mr. Morgenthau pointed out that the invalidation of the A.A.A. cost the Treasury $600,000,000 in revenue.

Also he said that income tax revenue had increased by 30 per cent, miscellaneous taxes by 20 per cent, and Customs revenue by 12 per cent.

Mr. Morgenthau added that excluding the Bonus payments the total expenditures included operating expenses of $3,500,000,000, including $750,000,000 for defense purposes, the annual continuance of payments to veterans, $600,000,000; interest on the public debt, $750,000,000; agricultural aid, $500,000,000; and other purposes $900,000,000.

Recovery and Relief purposes cost $3,000,000,000, including Public Works, $800,000,000; direct relief, $500,000,000; work relief, $4,250,000,000; Civilian Conservation Camps, $500,000,000 and home-owners aid, plus miscellaneous expenses, $250,000,000.

He said that one of the outstanding developments of the past three years was that the Government had reduced the average interest rate by nearly 1/4 thereby saving $250,000,000 annually. —United Press.

SMART SENTENCES ON SNATCHERS

SEVERAL CASES IN COURT

Several cases of theft from the person came before Mr. J. H. B. Lee at the Central Magistracy this morning, when smart sentences were imposed on the offenders.

Four months' hard labour was imposed on Li Yat, 24, who snatched a purse containing 38 cents from the jacket of another man, Chuan Hung, while he was watching a medicine hawk in Hollywood Road last night.

Sub-Inspector Kirby prosecuted. —Siu Kau, 21, boiler-scraper, was given six months' hard labour for stealing a gold ear-pick from a woman, Ng Yee. The man was remanded for medical examination and was certified as being unfit for a birthing. —Sub-Inspector Sabey prosecuted.

Chan Kim, 19, unemployed, remanded from yesterday on a charge of snatching a handbag from Miss Lucy Tang, of the Nurses' Quarters, Government Civil Hospital, was sentenced to three months' hard labour with eight strokes of the birch.

Sub-Inspector Kirby asked his Worship, to take a serious view of the case as the defendant had a previous conviction for a similar offence. On that occasion, S.I. Kirby requested his Worship, to deal leniently with him, he thought the defendant was just the catnap.

Lo Tai, 24, shop folk, admitted stealing $104 from the jacket of Cheung Pui-wah, shroff, of 54, Fuk Wah Street, Det-Sert. Guild related that both defendant and complainant were at a party last night and they had taken their jacket off. Defendant asked to be excused and stole the money. Six weeks' hard labour was imposed.

PEAK RICKSHA INCIDENT

LADY THROWN FROM VEHICLE

Two Peak ricksha pullers were summoned before Mr. J. H. B. Lee at the Central Police Court this morning for pulling their vehicle in a negligent manner. They pleaded guilty and were each fined $2.

Sub-Inspector R. R. McEwen stated that the defendants operated one vehicle and they took a passenger to the War Memorial Hospital and waited outside. Just then, Miss Sutton came out and they beckoned to her. Miss Sutton got into the ricksha and the defendants ran too fast. At a hairpin bend at Jardine's Corner, near Homestead flats, the ricksha tipped up and Miss Sutton was thrown out, receiving injuries to her back. She also suffered shock.

"We have to make an example of this case as this is not the first time it has happened," added the prosecuting officer. "I should think that with two pullers it would be safer."

WHEAT PRICE UP

Chicago, July 2. Wheat prices advanced the full five cent limit here today reaching a new high price for the season despite the reports of rain in the North-west, which is said to have come too late.

There was some realising when $1.00 per bushel was reached, but feverish buying easily absorbed all offerings. —United Press.

HOARDERS CONTINUE NERVOUS

BUT FRENCH GOLD DRAIN STOPPED STERLING IN DEMAND

London, July 2. For the first time since March 28 the Bank of France returns reveal an increase of gold holdings, which, although they only amount to £307,000, are nevertheless noteworthy as they show, at long last, a definite check on the drain of yellow metal out of France.

On the other hand, however, some quarters criticise the smallness of the increase, pointing out that although the outward flow of capital may have ceased confidence apparently has not yet returned to a point at which currency hoarders will disgorge any large volume of holdings.

In this respect it is interesting to observe that the British bank note circulation figure reached another record in the month, which, while primarily attributable to the holiday demand, demonstrates the reluctance of Continental hoarders to part with sterling notes. —Reuter.

JUMPED FROM GAOL WINDOW

ACCUSED MAN BREAKS HIS ANKLE

Wong Mui, 28, charged with the theft of a medicine glass from one No. 2736, belonging to Mr. Wanlies, and parked on Austin Road near the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, was unable to appear before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy today. The defendant had been held, pending trial, in prison, and on the arrival of the officers from the Kowloon Police Court, he jumped out of the prison window, fracturing his ankle.

The request for a week's formal remand was granted by Mr. E. Himsforth, during which time the defendant will be held in police custody. The intended larceny of a length of telephone wire from the house of Mr. Thomas Davis, of 1075 Canton Road, led to a sentence of six weeks' imprisonment on Leung Fuk-hung, 24.

unemployed coolie, who pleaded not guilty to the charge. It was stated that defendant had been only ten days out of prison on a charge of larceny.

Chen Tsol, 36, unemployed coolie living at 129 Fa Yuen Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen nine pounds of lead shot from Wiltfield Barracks, Kowloon. Staff Sergeant Naylor appeared for the prosecution. After hearing the case, Mr. E. Himsforth sentenced defendant to a payment of $10, or three weeks in prison.

Sub-Inspector H. E. Rogers appeared for the prosecution in a case in which Lau Foo, 17, was charged with stealing a radiator cap from car No. 836 belonging to a Chinese police interpreter. Mr. E. Himsforth sentenced him to pay $5, or undergo three weeks in prison.
